Big Men Scarce.
Going Up—Oil, Gas.
Those Cynical Girls
All Good Americans.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

President Coolidge complains that "big men" are scarce. That has always been. Caesar couldn't find leaders for his armies. President Coolidge picks a man for his tariff commission. Few big, able men, many medium, mediocre men inhabit the earth, fortunately for the average man.

When W. R. Hearst was very young, running the San Francisco Examiner, after leaving Harvard, he complained to his father, Senator George Hearst, that so many men were "fools." The father replied: "That's true, Willie. But let us not be too hard on the fools. If there were not so many of them, life would be less easy for you, me, and some others."

Oil costs more, gasoline will go higher, stocks of oil companies will go up, and when they do, the crop of "get rich quick" geese will be persuaded as usual to buy stock in companies that have no oil.

Remember this, little investors:—
If a thing is really good, the inside gentlemen keep it. They don't offer it to you at a tenth of its value.

The English tourist said to a western restaurant keeper:
"A nice thick porterhouse, please, broiled with mushrooms and tomatoes."
The western gentleman replied:
"If I had anything like that I'd eat it myself."
That's how it is with the oil stocks.

Anna L. Rose, dean of the George Washington university, distributed questions among her 1,200 young girls, and was shocked at the answers. Can you believe it? Many of those gentle, pretty little creatures are "cynics."

They admit liking "risque" amusements and expressed cynical opinions concerning religious beliefs. But cheer up, Dean Rose.

Every human being has moments of cynicism, in which he questions the wisdom of the universe, thinks suicide a pretty good institution, inclines to believe that powers of evil rule us. But that changes with years.

As for the girl cynic, the cure of her cynicism exists, not far away. That "cure" has nice blue eyes, or brown, thick curly hair, a pleasant smile, and roomy trousers, carefully selected. When the boy meets the girl cynic and begins telling her how the sight of her has confirmed his belief in angels, her cynicism vanishes. All her world becomes a bright pink, and before she knows it, she is hanging baby clothes on the line and is perfectly satisfied with the universe as long as the baby is well.

In their New York church, the Paulist fathers conducted a dialogue based on this question: "Are We Catholics Good Americans?" The fathers probably have some useful plan, but it is difficult to see why the dialogue was necessary.

Every American, regardless of his religion or lack of religion, is a good American if he works for a living, respects the constitution, obeys the laws, recognizes the government of the United States as the supreme power under heaven, and refrains from interfering with the rights of other Americans, as set forth in the constitution, free speech, free thought free newspapers, free religion, and complete separation of church and state.

DR. LEON TUCKER GIVES SERMON ON THEME, 'SECOND COMING OF CHRIST'

Audience Fills Every Nook and Corner of First Baptist Church Sunday Night — Afternoon Meeting Held.

Before an audience that filled every nook and corner of the First Baptist church auditorium and Sunday school room, Fifth street, Dr. Leon M. Tucker, of New York city, thrilled into frequent audible response his hearers on Sunday night, who, despite the intense heat that prevailed, hung on every word of his graphic illumination and development of the theme, "The Second Coming of Christ."

In the afternoon, utilizing a variegated color map, he depicted "The History of the Nations in the Light of the Bible." His morning subject was "A Leper and Two Clean Birds." Large congregations heard him at both of these services.

Equally arresting and contributing greatly to the high spiritual pitch reached at the conclusion of the day's activities were the appearances of Miss Allie May Schmidt, lyric soprano vocalist, whose song renditions in every instance deepened the impression she made at her initial engage-

Iowan Tells How He Met Britain's King at Wembley

NEW YORK, June 15.—"Just a casual exchange of courtesies between King George and myself."

John Cownie, tall, weather beaten glove manufacturer from Des Moines, Iowa, thus nonchalantly described his recent "handshaking" episode with the king of England at the Wembley exposition, when he arrived today on board the Adriatic.

Shaking hands with a king is no more than any other kind of a western handshake, Cownie indicated by his surprise that anyone should have noticed it.

"The king was standing near me at the same booth," Cownie said. "I nodded to him and he returned the nod. I said 'how do you do.' He returned the greeting and I asked him if he'd like to shake the hand af a young American—my son, John. The king said 'certainly.' He said it as if he meant it.

Aviation Claims Two More Victims; One Recently Wed

TOLEDO, June 15.—The science of aviation had claimed two additional victims here today. Mauritis Devos and Anton Depauli, two foreign aviators, were instantly killed here yesterday while testing a rotary engine invented by Devos.

The engine developed trouble while the plane was high in the air, and the machine crashed into a freight car in the Pennsylvania yards. A dense fog obscured the view of the ground below.

U. S.-MEXICO RELATIONS NEAR BREAKING POINT FOLLOWING HOT NOTES

President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg Read Calles' Bristling Public Defense From Assault Launched Last Week Upon Return From Week-end Cruise on Mayflower.

MEXICAN STATEMENT HINTS THAT KELLOGG'S CHALLENGE IS INSULT

Although Mexico City Newspapers Emphasize Diplomatic Crisis, People Generally Appear to be Indifferent to Political Tension — Reaction Against Ambassador Sheffield.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg got back to Washington today after a week-end yacht trip on the Mayflower to find that during their absence from the capital President Calles of Mexico had taken the opportunity to publicly defend himself and his government from the assault launched last Friday by the state department.

In an 800-word statement cabled from Mexico City for publication in the United States, Calles accepted the challenge offered by Secretary Kellogg that Mexico must live up to her international obligations, intimated that Mexico had been insulted, that Kellogg had been neither truthful nor just, and declared that the sovereignty of the Mexican government had been threatened.

The upshot of the situation today, following the publication of two of the bluntest and most bristling public statements issued on behalf of governments in this hemisphere for many years, is that relations between the United States and Mexico are again dangerously near the breaking point.

Not Formal Note.

The statement of President Calles had the same status as that of Secretary Kellogg. It was not a formal note, addressed to the government of the United States, but simply an exposition of his views for publication in the newspapers. From one angle, the international debate now under way between the United States and Mexico is an experiment in the new "open diplomacy" in that the general public on both sides af the Rio Grande have been let in on a situation which ordinarily would have been discussed privately between the two governments before publicity was given to formal communications.

The president and his secretary of state are banking on the success of the "open diplomacy," and despite the position taken by Calles they are hopeful that outspoken treatment of the situation will clear the air of any misunderstanding which may exist and pave the way for adjustment of differences between Washington and Mexico City, it was pointed out in diplomatic circles today that the manner in which Calles replied to Kellogg was the only way which he had to make his position clear both at home and abroad and that if he had sat under the American attack he would have made tacit acknowledgement of weakness to the citizens of his own country.

Expect Statement of Policy

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—Although the newspapers here today were emphasizing the diplomatic crisis which has developed between Mexico and the United States, the Mexican people generally appeared to be indifferent to the political tension.

Business continued as usual in the foreign colonies and capitalists were inclined to believe that the outcome of the sharp note the American government sent to Mexico and which drew an equally sharp reply from President Calles, would be a definite

Bulgar Minister, 75, Will Become American Citizen

WASHINGTON, June 15.—As a climax to more than 53 years of intermittent absence from his native land, Stephan Panaretoff, who only resigned this month as Bulgarian minister to the United State, has decided to become an American citizen.

News of his decision created astonishment in official Washington as not since the early days of the republic has a foreign diplomat become an American citizen. A precedent was established by Edmond Genet, first French ambassador to the United States, who married a daughter of Governor Clinton of New York, assumed American citizenship and died in this country.

Although past 75 years of age, Panaretoff, who for 10 years has represented Bulgaria at Washington, has accepted a post as lecturer on the Near East at George Washington University.

DR. LEON TUCKER GIVES SERMON ON THEME, 'SECOND COMING OF CHRIST'

Audience Fills Every Nook and Corner of First Baptist Church Sunday Night — Afternoon Meeting Held.

Before an audience that filled every nook and corner of the First Baptist church auditorium and Sunday school room, Fifth street, Dr. Leon M. Tucker, of New York city, thrilled into frequent audible response his hearers on Sunday night, who, despite the intense heat that prevailed, hung on every word of his graphic illumination and development of the theme, "The Second Coming of Christ."

In the afternoon, utilizing a variegated color map, he depicted "The History of the Nations in the Light of the Bible." His morning subject was "A Leper and Two Clean Birds." Large congregations heard him at both of these services.

Equally arresting and contributing greatly to the high spiritual pitch reached at the conclusion of the day's activities were the appearances of Miss Allie May Schmidt, lyric soprano vocalist, whose song renditions in every instance deepened the impression she made at her initial engage-

Iowan Tells How He Met Britain's King at Wembley

NEW YORK, June 15.—"Just a casual exchange of courtesies between King George and myself."

John Cownie, tall, weather beaten glove manufacturer from Des Moines, Iowa, thus nonchalantly described his recent "handshaking" episode with the king of England at the Wembley exposition, when he arrived today on board the Adriatic.

Shaking hands with a king is no more than any other kind of a western handshake, Cownie indicated by his surprise that anyone should have noticed it.

"The king was standing near me at the same booth," Cownie said. "I nodded to him and he returned the nod. I said 'how do you do.' He returned the greeting and I asked him if he'd like to shake the hand af a young American—my son, John. The king said 'certainly.' He said it as if he meant it.

KRUTTSCHNITT, EX-SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAIL CHIEF, IS DEAD

He was 71 years old. He was in the hospital recovering from a slight operation performed last week.

Kruttschnitt retired as chairman, of the executive committee of the southern Pacific on June 1.

Aviation Claims Two More Victims; One Recently Wed

TOLEDO, June 15.—The science of aviation had claimed two additional victims here today. Mauritis Devos and Anton Depauli, two foreign aviators, were instantly killed here yesterday while testing a rotary engine invented by Devos.

The engine developed trouble while the plane was high in the air, and the machine crashed into a freight car in the Pennsylvania yards. A dense fog obscured the view of the ground below.

Depauli had been married only a month. His bride had a premonition he would be killed in the test, but he laughed at her fears.

U. S.-MEXICO RELATIONS NEAR BREAKING POINT FOLLOWING HOT NOTES

President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg Read Calles' Bristling Public Defense From Assault Launched Last Week Upon Return From Week-end Cruise on Mayflower.

MEXICAN STATEMENT HINTS THAT KELLOGG'S CHALLENGE IS INSULT

Although Mexico City Newspapers Emphasize Diplomatic Crisis, People Generally Appear to be Indifferent to Political Tension — Reaction Against Ambassador Sheffield.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg got back to Washington today after a week-end yacht trip on the Mayflower to find that during their absence from the capital President Calles of Mexico had taken the opportunity to publicly defend himself and his government from the assault launched last Friday by the state department.

In an 800-word statement cabled from Mexico City for publication in the United States, Calles accepted the challenge offered by Secretary Kellogg that Mexico must live up to her international obligations, intimated that Mexico had been insulted, that Kellogg had been neither truthful nor just, and declared that the sovereignty of the Mexican government had been threatened.

The upshot of the situation today, following the publication of two of the bluntest and most bristling public statements issued on behalf of governments in this hemisphere for many years, is that relations between the United States and Mexico are again dangerously near the breaking point.

Not Formal Note.

The statement of President Calles had the same status as that of Secretary Kellogg. It was not a formal note, addressed to the government of the United States, but simply an exposition of his views for publication in the newspapers. From one angle, the international debate now under way between the United States and Mexico is an experiment in the new "open diplomacy" in that the general public on both sides af the Rio Grande have been let in on a situation which ordinarily would have been discussed privately between the two governments before publicity was given to formal communications.

The president and his secretary of state are banking on the success of the "open diplomacy," and despite the position taken by Calles they are hopeful that outspoken treatment of the situation will clear the air of any misunderstanding which may exist and pave the way for adjustment of differences between Washington and Mexico City, it was pointed out in diplomatic circles today that the manner in which Calles replied to Kellogg was the only way which he had to make his position clear both at home and abroad and that if he had sat under the American attack he would have made tacit acknowledgement of weakness to the citizens of his own country.

Expect Statement of Policy

MEXICO CITY, June 15.—Although the newspapers here today were emphasizing the diplomatic crisis which has developed between Mexico and the United States, the Mexican people generally appeared to be indifferent to the political tension.

Business continued as usual in the foreign colonies and capitalists were inclined to believe that the outcome of the sharp note the American government sent to Mexico and which drew an equally sharp reply from President Calles, would be a definite

Bulgar Minister, 75, Will Become American Citizen

WASHINGTON, June 15.—As a climax to more than 53 years of intermittent absence from his native land, Stephan Panaretoff, who only resigned this month as Bulgarian minister to the United States, has decided to become an American citizen.

News of his decision created astonishment in official Washington as not since the early days of the republic has a foreign diplomat become an American citizen. A precedent was established by Edmond Genet, first French ambassador to the United States, who married a daughter of Governor Clinton of New York, assumed American citizenship and died in this country.

Although past 75 years of age, Panaretoff, who for 10 years has represented Bulgaria at Washington, has accepted a post as lecturer on the Near East at George Washington University.

CHINESE WAR IS "SERIOUS"

Another British Warship is Being Sent to Hankow.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—Open demands that China declare war on Great Britain were being made by Chinese radicals here today.

The demands came as a climax to a was of anti-British feeling that has been sweeping over China as the result of the killing of eight Chinese by British marines in Hankow last week.

Sections of the Chinese press today are publishing warlike editorials urging the immediate severance of diplomatic relations with Britain.

LONDON, June 15. — The foreign powers today looked upon the Chinese situation as "serious," the British foreign office said, and another British warship is being sent to Hankow.

Chief of Police McDermott, assisted by Captain Conley and Patrolman Lister, Saturday night raided a refreshment stand conducted by William Roan of Ravine street, near Patterson field, confiscating about five gallons of moonshine whisky which Roan is alleged to have been mixing it with pop and selling it at the rate of 50 cents a drink.

The prisoner was taken to the city hall where he was arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown upon charges of possessing and selling intoxicating liquors. He was fined $305.80 and released after he had made arrangements to settle.

Robert Howell, who is alleged to have been with Roan at the time of the raid, was charged with being drunk and paid a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $10.80.

Dr. A. B. Marshall, Former Local Pastor, And His Wife Will Spend Year In China

Resigns Clarinda, Iowa, Charge, Preparatory to Sailing From San Francisco Early in August—Mrs. Marshall Will Teach.

Dr. A. B. Marshall, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, and who recently has been located in Clarinda, Iowa, and his wife, formerly Miss Mary E. Hallock, a former local high school teacher, will leave August 1 for China, where they will visit for at least a year and perhaps remain permanently.

Dr. Marshall recently tendered his resignation as pastor of the Clarinda Presbyterian church, which charge he has held for several years.

Dr. and Mrs. Marshall will leave Clarinda August 1, and on August 8 will sail from San Francisco for China, arriving in Pekin, September 1. Dr. Marshall will engage in conference work at different stations, while his wife will teach in Pekin university. If the climate is favorable, they may remain in the Orient permanently.

Mrs. Adelia M. Hallock, mother of Mrs. Marshall, who is well known here, where she made frequent visits, plans to spend the summer in the east with her son, and will go to California for the winter.

Dr. Marshall was called to the pastorate of the local Presbyterian church in the spring of 1887, succeeding the late Rev. T. V. Milligan, father of T. V. Milligan, of the Milligan Hardware and Supply company. He was pastor here for about eight years. He and Miss Hallock were married about 12 years ago.

LET CONTRACT FOR FIRE HOSE

New York Company Successful Bidder on 1,000 Feet.

The municipal board of control Saturday awarded a contract for 1,000 feet of hose to the Fabric Fire Hose Company of New York at a contract price of $1.25 per foot.

The order was placed, according to Mayor Brown, through the Milligan Hardware & Supply company, local agents for the company. The hose purchased is of the waxed type, similar to hose which has been in service here for approximately 13 years. There were three bidders for the contract.

The hose will be delivered within 30 days. This order is in addition to the 400 feet purchased by the city following the big fire which swept a section of the Fifth street business district on February 22, last.

A contract for 200 feet of chemical hose at 50 cents per foot will likely be awarded to the Fire Equipment corporation of Cleveland today. This order will be placed through the local agent.

The proposed new chassis for the fire department is still under consideration. This contract probably will be signed late this week. A six cylinder car will be purchased.

the use of gas in warfare. A better plan would be to outlaw war itself, if "outlawing" could have any effect. It is probable, and Prof. Haldane maintains the view with energy, and facts, that outlawing gas would do no good.

Every new idea in war is denounced as outrageous and cruel. The fact is that poison gas would probably end wars much more quickly than they could possibly be ended by bullets and explosives apd with smaller loss of life.

There might be more suffering with fewer deaths, but one would balance the other.

A million men shed bitter tears with mustard gas in their eyes and noses and recover, a hundred thousand men lie on the battlefields with festering wounds to die eventually, while the mustard gas men get well. Which would you choose?

It must be remembered that men are always horrified with what is new, and take for granted every atrocious thing that is old. Age lends respectability to poverty, injustice, disease and bayonets.

The noble chevalier, Bayard, "without fear and without reproach," went to war as a young man, dressed in armor to face spears and arrows only. When gunpowder came along, he thought it was horrible, and ought to be outlawed. And he executed without mercy every enemy soldier captured with a musket in his hands. Those with bows and arrow he treated kindly.

We simply look on poison gas as Bayard looked on powder. We are used to the powder. That's the only differnce.

Throughout the nation 250 died during the heat wave. That is 250 too many, and 90 per cent of the dead would not have died had they been in better physical condition.

We may make a great fuss about a heat wave and make little fuss about a disease wave. Thousands die of consumption, tens of thousands of women die in childbirth. Such deaths could be prevented. But we don't get excited about that. We are used to such things.

Besides, a majority of us escape death by tuberculosis, or death in childbirth, whereas we cannot escape the heat. It interests us because it hits us.

Chinese War

Eight Chinese rioters were killed at Hankow several days ago by British marines and the Chinese government has made an official protest to Great Britain against the incident.

The powers are in complete accord and while there are no plans for immediate intervention, representatives of the powers are negotiating in Pekin, the foreign office said.

Seven hundred Yunnanese soldiers were butchered by the victorious Cantonese troops who recaptured Canton from the Yunnanese last Friday, a dispatch to the Central News from Canton today declared.

Refugees described atrocities in Canton as worse than any committed in Persian battles.

Many of the Yunnanese captured in the fall of the city later were set free only to be beaten and stoned to death in the streets. Others were drowned at the harbor. One Yunnanese officer was crucified on a telephone pole.

One Yunnanese was saved from the mob by the intervention of British and American sailors outside the French concession.

C. M. Faure, commander of the steamer Faure, addressed this same mob, and an American, Dr. Biddle, aided in the rescue of the Yunnanese.

MANILA, June 15.—Week-end meetings by thousands of Chinese were held in Peking, Nanking, Mukden, Harbin, Kirin, Kalgan, Tsing Tao, Chung King, Kiuklang and many other China cities at which money was raised and sent to Shanghai, according to reports here today.

ment here; Miss Cora Belle Young, who again captivated with her violin executions, and Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, who continued her brilliant manipulation of the harp.

Owing to a slight indisposition Miss Coons was not able to be out at the morning service, and for the evening did not assist in the final musical numbers with the banjo.

Culminating the doings of the day with the key song of the campaign, "Into My Heart Lord Jesus," which followed the hymn, Jesup's "Lover of My Soul," sung by Miss Schmidt, and accompanied by Dr. Tucker with guitar and Miss Young with violin to the tune of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in which the listeners joined, an enthusiasm was reached that presages accentuated interest in the remaining sessions of the series.

Announcement was made that Dr. Tucker would speak on "What Sixteen Prophets Have to Say of Jesus Christ" on Monday evening. Afternoon services will be held Tuesday, Wednesday nad Thursday.

Song Service in Evening.

For the benefit of those who had not been previously present the various members of the party were again introduced by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, the church pastor.

A song service, directed by Harry Chilton, preceded Dr. Tucker's address in the evening, which was followed by prayers by Mr. Chilton and Julius Kosminski. Then those in the party indulged in repetition of scriptural quotations anent the second coming of Christ. Miss Coons pleased with a harp number; Miss Cora Belle Young, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. A. H. Ellis, the local church's organist, gave a violin offering, Fritz Kreister's "Evening Bells."

Miss Cehmidt's pre-discourse song, accompanied by harp and violin, was "Nothing Satisfies But Jesus." The invocation was made by Mrs. Jesse McKee Coons, who has charge of the afternoon prayer services of the meeting.

The fact of Christ's second coming, once assimilated, will become the key of every book in the Bible, maintained Dr. Tucker. "But only God alone can reveal this truth," he added.

Dr. Tucker took the pre-millenium view-point of the much contraverted second coming which conclusion he averred "opened the Bible to me early in life."

From Genesis to Revelations he contended the theme running throughout biblical literature makes for two advents of Jesus Christ, "that on the cross for expiation and the other by the clouds for administration."

In the apostolic age, he asserted, it was deemed "apostacy not to sigh at any reference to the coming of the Lord."

Accordingly, he explained, since the Lord Jesus Christ broke in on my vision I have constantly preached no less a person than Christ and no less a book than the Bible.

The coming of Christ he affirmed would make for the racification of nations which in 6,000 years have had but 227 years of peace, the beautification of creation, the restoration of national history, the regeneration of the earth and the universal coronation of a king.

During his day's address Dr. Tucker paid tributes to William Jennings Bryan and Billy Sunday. The former, he said, no matter what his political errors may have been, was now doing the greatest work of his life in defending the tenets of the Bible, while the latter should not be particularly criticized for his style and methods because of the great good he has done and is accomplishing.

Morning Sermon.

Leprosy is God's figure of sin, declared Dr. Tucker in the morning sermon on "One Leper and Two Clean Birds," in which he vividly portrayed the steps taken by priests under the Mosaic law to indicate cleanliness in those held to have been cured which he further asserted were typical of Christ's sacrifice, resurrection and present intercessory activities.

In the course of his sermon Dr. Tucker averred the truisms: Every man, woman and child needs sympathy and love; who boasts of ancestors is, says Plato, like potatoes underground; nothing in life is so base as ingratitude; people we do the most for frequently treat us the worst; there is nothing ordinary or inconsequential with God; the moment one gets proud he is on dangerous ground; when people praise you it is time for you to begin praying; if anything will soften the heart it is the word "mother;" the love of God in my heart is the only reason I can love any one.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 15.—Bearish traders made a strenuous effort to upset the stock market in the early trading today, concerning their heaviest selling on the oil stocks which, because of their prolonged advance in the last week or two, were considered the vulnerable section of the market. Pan-American was pounded down to 77 in the first few minutes of trading for a loss of 3½ points and numerous other oil shares sustained fractional losses. American Can lost a point, Baldwin Locomotive and a number of the railroad stocks sustained slight losses.

United States Steel, at the head of the steel and industrial stocks led a strong upward movement, which was also participated in by the public utility stocks, and later by the rails. The motors stocks, which had been mixed in their market movements at the opening, gained strength all along the line and finally the oil stocks joined the upward procession. The bears appeared to be unsuccessful in this attempt to start the market on a downward journey.

United States Steel added another point to its two point gain of last week and sold up to 117¼. Gulf States was up 1½ at 83. Crucible gained a point at 69, and low priced steel shares, like Replogle and Otis, made fractional gains. Maxwell Motors was up two points. American Beet Sugar responded to the president's refusal to cut sugar tariffs. Electric Light and Power led the utility stocks in a two point rise and Consolidated Gas was active and strong. The oil stocks regained their early losses, with the exception of Pan-American, but were not as prominent in the trading as in the last three sessions of last week.

What are "Grounds for Divorce?"

This question seems to be tearing our modern civilization to pieces. Each day the papers blaze forth in headlines all about the "So-and-so's Sensational Divorce Suit."

Consider for a moment the case of the Sorbiers.

Maurice Sorbier, a highly successful French attorney, married Alice. She was beautiful. He was handsome and rich. What more could a newly married couple wish for? Nothing until it happened.

Their first wedding anniversary finds him wrapped up in his latest case, never for a moment giving a thought to the theatre party his wife has so carefully planned for the occasion.

A misunderstanding develops into a small size riot and ends up in a divorce. Alice marries again; Maurice is mixed up in an affair with a French actress, his latest client; the girl finds her new husband worse than the first and has Maurice help her obtain a divorce, and they are remarried.

Great stuff for a movie, what! And what a laughing matter Paramount has made of it!

It is the attraction at the Ceramic theatre.

Florence Vidor, Matt Moore and Louise Fazenda, screen comedienne, are featured in the leading roles of the production, written for the screen by Violet Clark from Ernest Vajda's Broadway stage success of the same name, which in turn was adapted by Guy Bolton.

statement of policy by each government. The representative of Henry Ford announced that the diplomatic interchange would not halt the building of a Ford motor factory here.

Reaction in Mexican governmental circles was against Ambassador Sheffield rather than the American government. Mexican politicians blamed Sheffield for the stern note which Secretary of State Kellogg dispatched.

Believe Breach Can Be Healed.

Government officials held that Kellogg should have delivered his note to Mexican Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez, in Washington, for transmission to President Calles if he was dissatisfied with conditions in Mexico, and not to have released it for publication.

Conservative officials believe the breach can be healed without a surrender of dignity on either side. The impression is becoming a conviction in governmental circles that Ambassador Sheffield will not return to Mexico. It was pointed out that Sheffield's health is not good and that he cannot stand the high altitude of Mexico City.

The reference in President Calles' not to the affairs of other nations was thought to refer to Sheffield's interest in the recent British tramway strike and developments growing out of the assassination of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, by agrarians.

TRAIN KILLS JUNE GRONER

"Accidental Death" Verdict in Columbiana Fatality.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, Saturday, returned a verdict of "accidental death" in connection with the killing of June Groner, 76, of Columbiana, who was struck by a fast express train, known as the Cleveland flyer, at the Main street crossing in Columbiana Friday night.

Groner, carrying a basket and a sickle, had stopped at the railroad crossing while a westbound freight train was passing. He then started across the tracks nad because of deafness evidently failed to hear the eastbound passenger train approaching on the next track.

The man's body was hurled 30 feet. His right arm was severed and his body badly mangled. Death is believed to have been almost instantaneous.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Groner, and was born near Lisbon, March 23, 1849. He had lived in Columbiana for about 30 years and for many years was employed by a Columbiana lumber firm. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Groner and three sons, Charles, Amos and Ralph Groner, of Canton, and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Backins, Youngstown; Mrs. J. E. Fuhrman, Akron, and Mrs. Nelson Kyser, Columbiana, and two brothers and one sister, Simon and Miss Rebecca Groner, of Leetonia, and George Groner, of Columbiana.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon. Burial was made in the Columbiana cemetery.

Mr. Carpenter:

Let us look at this wage-increase proposition from the viewpoint of the fellows who would have to pay up if you won your strike—the men who work in the potteries, in the mills, in the stores and the offices. They would probably ask two questions about this dispute:

First: Do the Carpenters need an increase?

Second: Can the public afford to pay an increase?

As for the carpenters needing an increase: Their living costs are not going up. Costs in general are coming down, if anything. The carpenters were well paid under the old scale—$10 a day. That's more than the average man makes nowadays. There is no economic need for an increase.

As for the ability of the public to pay more: The wages of the average man are not going up; probably coming down. Many are not working full time. Plenty of people are having all they can do to meet present expenses, without having new burdens added to them.

If the carpenters win, the public loses. It's the people's battle. All the contractors are asking is that the whole dispute be put up to a board of arbitration. Someone, sometime, is going to step in and bring this thing to arbitration for the good of the community. It will probably end speedily then. This ought to be done now. No one profits by a strike.

LET CONTRACT FOR FIRE HOSE

New York Company Successful Bidder on 1,000 Feet.

The municipal board of control Saturday awarded a contract for 1,000 feet of hose to the Fabric Fire Hose Company of New York at a contract price of $1.25 per foot.

The order was placed, according to Mayor Brown, through the Milligan Hardware & Supply company, local agents for the company. The hose purchased is of the waxed type, similar to hose which has been in service here for approximately 13 years. There were three bidders for the contract.

The hose will be delivered within 30 days. This order is in addition to the 400 feet purchased by the city following the big fire which swept a section of the Fifth street business district on February 22, last.

A contract for 200 feet of chemical hose at 50 cents per foot will likely be awarded to the Fire Equipment corporation of Cleveland today. This order will be placed through the local agent.

The proposed new chassis for the fire department is still under consideration. This contract probably will be signed late this week. A six cylinder car will be purchased.

the use of gas in warfare. A better plan would be to outlaw war itself, if "outlawing" could have any effect. It is probable, and Prof. Haldane maintains the view with energy, and facts, that outlawing gas would do no good.

Every new idea in war is denounced as outrageous and cruel. The fact is that poison gas would probably end wars much more quickly than they could possibly be ended by bullets and explosives apd with smaller loss of life.

There might be more suffering with fewer deaths, but one would balance the other.

A million men shed bitter tears with mustard gas in their eyes and noses and recover, a hundred thousand men lie on the battlefields with festering wounds to die eventually, while the mustard gas men get well. Which would you choose?

It must be remembered that men are always horrified with what is new, and take for granted every atrocious thing that is old. Age lends respectability to poverty, injustice, disease and bayonets.

The noble chevalier, Bayard, "without fear and without reproach," went to war as a young man, dressed in armor to face spears and arrows only. When gunpowder came along, he thought it was horrible, and ought to be outlawed. And he executed without mercy every enemy soldier captured with a musket in his hands. Those with bows and arrow he treated kindly.

We simply look on poison gas as Bayard looked on powder. We are used to the powder. That's the only diffence.

Throughout the nation 250 died during the heat wave. That is 250 too many, and 90 per cent of the dead would not have died had they been in better physical condition.

We may make a great fuss about a heat wave and make little fuss about a disease wave. Thousands die of consumption, tens of thousands of women die in childbirth. Such deaths could be prevented. But we don't get excited about that. We are used to such things.

Besides, a majority of us escape death by tuberculosis, or death in childbirth, whereas we cannot escape the heat. It interests us because it hits us.

Chinese War

Eight Chinese rioters were killed at Hankow several days ago by British marines and the Chinese government has made an official protest to Great Britain against the incident.

The powers are in complete accord and while there are no plans for immediate intervention, representatives of the powers are negotiating in Pekin, the foreign office said.

Seven hundred Yunnanese soldiers were butchered by the victorious Cantonese troops who recaptured Canton from the Yunnanese last Friday, a dispatch to the Central News from Canton today declared.

Refugees described atrocities in Canton as worse than any committed in Persian battles.

Many of the Yunnanese captured in the fall of the city later were set free only to be beaten and stoned to death in the streets. Others were drowned at the harbor. One Yunnanese officer was crucified on a telephone pole.

One Yunnanese was saved from the mob by the intervention of British and American sailors outside the French concession.

C. M. Faure, commander of the steamer Faure, addressed this same mob, and an American, Dr. Biddle, aided in the rescue of the Yunnanese.

MANILA, June 15.—Week-end meetings by thousands of Chinese were held in Peking, Nanking, Mukden, Harbin, Kirin, Kalgan, Tsing Tao, Chung King, Kiuklang and many other China cities at which money was raised and sent to Shanghai, according to reports here today.

ment here; Miss Cora Belle Young, who again captivated with her violin executions, and Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, who continued her brilliant manipulation of the harp.

Owing to a slight indisposition Miss Coons was not able to be out at the morning service, and for the evening did not assist in the final musical numbers with the banjo.

Culminating the doings of the day with the key song of the campaign, "Into My Heart Lord Jesus," which followed the hymn, Jesup's "Lover of My Soul," sung by Miss Schmidt, and accompanied by Dr. Tucker with guitar and Miss Young with violin to the tune of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in which the listeners joined, an enthusiasm was reached that presages accentuated interest in the remaining sessions of the series.

Announcement was made that Dr. Tucker would speak on "What Sixteen Prophets Have to Say of Jesus Christ" on Monday evening. Afternoon services will be held Tuesday, Wednesday nad Thursday.

Song Service in Evening.

For the benefit of those who had not been previously present the various members of the party were again introduced by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, the church pastor.

A song service, directed by Harry Chilton, preceded Dr. Tucker's address in the evening, which was followed by prayers by Mr. Chilton and Julius Kosminski. Then those in the party indulged in repetition of scriptural quotations anent the second coming of Christ. Miss Coons pleased with a harp number; Miss Cora Belle Young, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. A. H. Ellis, the local church's organist, gave a violin offering, Fritz Kreister's "Evening Bells."

Miss Cehmidt's pre-discourse song, accompanied by harp and violin, was "Nothing Satisfies But Jesus." The invocation was made by Mrs. Jesse McKee Coons, who has charge of the afternoon prayer services of the meeting.

The fact of Christ's second coming, once assimilated, will become the key of every book in the Bible, maintained Dr. Tucker. 'But only God alone can reveal this truth," he added.

Dr. Tucker took the pre-millenium view-point of the much contraverted second coming which conclusion he averred "opened the Bible to me early in life."

From Genesis to Revelations he contended the theme running throughout biblical literature makes for two advents of Jesus Christ, "that on the cross for expiation and the other by the clouds for administration."

In the apostolic age, he asserted, it was deemed "apostacy not to sigh at any reference to the coming of the Lord."

Accordingly, he explained, since the Lord Jesus Christ broke in on my vision I have constantly preached no less a person than Christ and no less a book than the Bible.

The coming of Christ he affirmed would make for the pacification of nations which in 6,000 years have had but 227 years of peace, the beautification of creation, the restoration of national history, the regeneration of the earth and the universal coronation of a king.

During his day's address Dr. Tucker paid tributes to William Jennings Bryan and Billy Sunday. The former, he said, no matter what his political errors may have been, was now doing the greatest work of his life in defending the tenets of the Bible, while the latter should not be particularly criticized for his style and methods because of the great good he has done and is accomplishing.

Morning Sermon.

Leprosy is God's figure of sin, declared Dr. Tucker in the morning sermon on "One Leper and Two Clean Birds," in which he vividly portrayed the steps taken by priests under the Mosaic law to indicate cleanliness in those held to have been cured which he further asserted were typical of Christ's sacrifice, resurrection and present intercessory activities.

In the course of his sermon Dr. Tucker averred the truisms: Every man, woman and child needs sympathy and love; who boasts of ancestors is, says Plato, like potatoes underground; nothing in life is so base as ingratitude; people we do the most for frequently treat us the worst; there is nothing ordinary or inconsequential with God; the moment one gets proud he is on dangerous ground; when people praise you it is time for you to begin praying; if anything will soften the heart it is the word "mother;" the love of God in my heart is the only reason I can love any one.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 15.—Bearish traders made a strenuous effort to upset the stock market in the early trading today, concerning their heaviest selling on the oil stocks which, because of their prolonged advance in the last week or two, were considered the vulnerable section of the market. Pan-American was pounded down to 77 in the first few minutes of trading for a loss of 3½ points and numerous other oil shares sustained fractional losses. American Can lost a point, Baldwin Locomotive and a number of the railroad stocks sustained slight losses.

United States Steel, at the head of the steel and industrial stocks led a strong upward movement, which was also participated in by the public utility stocks, and later by the rails. The motors stocks, which had been mixed in their market movements at the opening, gained strength all along the line and finally the oil stocks joined the upward procession. The bears appeared to be unsuccessful in this attempt to start the market on a downward journey.

United States Steel added another point to its two point gain of last week and sold up to 117¼. Gulf States was up 1½ at 83. Crucible gained a point at 69, and low priced steel shares, like Replogle and Otis, made fractional gains. Maxwell Motors was up two points. American Beet Sugar responded to the president's refusal to cut sugar tariffs. Electric Light and Power led the utility stocks in a two point rise and Consolidated Gas was active and strong. The oil stocks regained their early losses, with the exception of Pan-American, but were not as prominent in the trading as in the last three sessions of last week.

Mr. Carpenter:

Let us look at this wage-increase proposition from the viewpoint of the fellows who would have to pay up if you won your strike—the men who work in the potteries, in the mills, in the stores and the offices. They would probably ask two questions about this dispute:

First: Do the Carpenters need an increase?

Second: Can the public afford to pay an increase?

As for the carpenters needing an increase: Their living costs are not going up. Costs in general are coming down, if anything. The carpenters were well paid under the old scale—$10 a day. That's more than the average man makes nowadays. There is no economic need for an increase.

As for the ability of the public to pay more: The wages of the average man are not going up; probably coming down. Many are not working full time. Plenty of people are having all they can do to meet present expenses, without having new burdens added to them.

If the carpenters win, the public loses. It's the people's battle. All the contractors are asking is that the whole dispute be put up to a board of arbitration. Someone, sometime, is going to step in and bring this thing to arbitration for the good of the community. It will probably end speedily then. This ought to be done now. No one profits by a strike.

MARY L. ICE WINS ESSAY CONTEST

Wellsville lodge No. 1040, B. P. O. Elks, held its annual flag day services yesterday afternoon in front of the home in Riverside avenue before an audience of several hundred persons, in addition to more than a hundred school children.

Attorney L. M. Eyes, of East Palestine, delivered the chief address of the afternoon, making a patriotic talk in which the history of the Stars and Stripes was related.

Submitting, in the opinion of the judges, the best essay of approximately 125 entered in the eighth grade school children's contest, Mary L. Ice received the first prize award of $10 in gold.

The second award, $5 in gold, went to Raymond Couts, and the third, $2.50, to Margaret Irwin.

The three prize winning essays were read by their respective authors following the Elks' services. Each of the 125 contestants received a small silk American flag.

Sixteen pupils received honorable mention. They are: Opal Cline, James L. Greene, James Snowden, Zana Holliday, Mildred Phillips, Roland Taylor, Evelyn W. Beech, Virginia Crowl, Mary Olive Banfield, Esther May Hough, Margaret Wyper, Hazel Smith, Ruth Hamilton, Grace Marie Allman, Ruby Reed and Margaret Roberts.

Following introductory exercises by Exalted Ruler Earl Adams and lodge officers, Rev. Harry Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, made the invocation. The altar service was performed by Esquire E. T. Fogo and lodge officers. George B. Fraser gave the Elks' tribute to the flag. Several musical selections were given by Stillwell's orchestra.

Mary Ice's prize winning essay follows:

"Our flag and our people have gone through many battles and hardships to give us today such a great nation.

"From the discovery of America until the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, the thirteen colonies were governed by England under the English flag, but after this time the colonies were separated from England.

"General Washington and the other chief generals of the Revolutionary war thought it wise to make a flag of our own as a symbol of our country, which is the purpose of a flag. They thought that a flag of their own would help the soldiers to remember what they were fighting for and it would encourage them to fight.

"The first flag was made in Philadelphia in 1776 by Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, with the suggestion of the generals.

"The flag was made in the form of a rectangle, having six white stripes and seven red stripes. Altogether there were thirteen stripes representing the thirteen colonies. In the upper left hand corner was placed thirteen white stars with five points in a circle on a blue background, representing the colonies.

"Betsy Ross, which she was most commonly called, was a dress-maker. She made this flag from sailors' and soldiers' old suits. We got the stars from the stars in heaven, the red stripes from our mother country and we separated them by white stripes to show that we were separated from her. The red stands for the blood shed on the battlefields for justice, whites tands for purity, and blue stands for loyalty.

"On June 14,1777 Congress passed an act saying that this flag should be our permanent flag of the thirteen states.

"Betsy Ross continued to make flags for our government for about 50 years. In the following battles of the Revolutionary war, our flag was at the head of our army and navy.

"As years went on and states were added to the union, more stars were added to the blue field until now we have 48 states and 48 stars. The number of stripes has never been changed. This suggestion was made by S. C. Reid and was suggested because it represents the original colonies.

"Our flag has gone through the latter part of the Revolutionary war, the War of 1812, the Civil war, Spanish-American war, and the great World war.

"On June 14 of every year all patriotic citizens of the United States observe this day as the birthday of the nation."

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1925.

The Flag and Good Sense

Flag Day, which will be celebrated today and tomorrow, is observed in the United States because it is the anniversary of the day in 1777 when congress formally adopted the Stars and Stripes as the national flag. It is not a national holiday.

In East Liverpool, the Elks' lodge has arranged special exercises for Tuesday evening, when Rev. W. H. Clark, of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church, will be the speaker. And, too, the lodge has conducted a Flag Day essay contest in which seventh and eighth grade pupils have participated.

Observance of the flag's birthday in recent years has taken the form chiefly of displaying Old Glory on private homes as well as public buildings. Also the American Legion and other bodies have tried in this connection to teach the public a little more about the flag than it seems to know.

There are certain purposes to which the flag may be put; there are definite ways in which it should be displayed. There is a regular code for this which can be followed easily by any intelligent person.

There are, in addition to these formal matters, certain flag courtesies which a thoughtful and self-respecting American citizen ought to be able to observe without instructions. Affection and respect for the flag are good. Maudlin sentimentality on the subject is bad. The "flag incident" which occurred in Toronto on Decoration Day when a local policeman removed the flag from an American tourist's automobile because the British flag was not displayed with it was caused by such sentiment folly. It was discourteous of the American so to display his flag in a friendly foreign country. It was foolish of the policeman to take the incident so seriously.

Sanity in regard to the flag on Flag Day and on all the other days of the year is as important as sanity in the commonplace affairs of daily life.

Applause And Service

A popular movie actor recently visited the dignified city of Toronto and was so enthusiastically welcomed by the public that some serious individuals were disturbed. They lamented that such unbounded admiration should be lavished on a mere screen-player when statesmen and other public benefactors are ignored.

American cities are more accustomed to big demonstrations of popularity for movie folk, baseball players and other idols whose heroism or service may be small in comparison with their popularity.

It is not really such a deplorable thing as the lamenters imagine. Even if keen discrimination is not always shown by the crowd in its choice of a subject for admiration, no permanent injury is done to anybody concerned. The persons who appreciate greatness in statesmanship, literature, art, philosophy and true public service may be in the minority. They are also less demonstrative in their expression of approval. Furthermore, their heroes may be better satisfied by quietly expressed approval than by noisy acclaim. And finally, the great work they do is less interrupted and better served in the long run by the encouragement of understanding friends than by unrestrained applause.

No More Log Cabins

The cances of being born in a log cabin grow less all the time, for two reasons. One is the increasing scarcity of log cabins and the other is the increasing popularity of maternity hospitals. Public Welfare Commissioner Coler, of New York, shrewdly remarks that our future presidents will be born in hospitals.

They will be all the better for it, too. In contemplating the number of great men in our national history who first saw the light in log houses, we usually forget the number of babies that died there for lack of proper equipment and care. The maternity ward is a much safer place.

The log cabin, nevertheless, is regarded with sentimental regret as it disappears. It is woven into our pioneer history and is a lasting symbol of vigor, courage and achievement. It is also picturesque, in a world that is rapidly being sawed, planed and painted to a tame uniformity.

There will be a vogue for log cabins again, sooner or later. But then they will be luxuries. Only the rich will be able to afford them, because they take more lumber than any other kind of construction.

Profitable Autos

There are said to be now 17,500,000 automobiles in operation in the United States. This is too many, as far as roads are concerned, as anyone can see for himself except in specially favored localities. Few highway systems are able to stand the traffic, and few cities have adequate streets and paving. Otherwise the number is neither particularly impressive nor dismaying. A nation of about 115,000,000 people, with more coming every minute, could use several million additional cars without embarrassment.

These automobiles are said to be costing the nation $8,000,000,000 a year. This is a lot of money. Yet it is nothing to be dismayed about in so wealthy a nation. In fact, the automobile is adding to the national wealth rather than detracting from it.

Cars wear out fast, but there are ample compensations. A very considerable part of the population gets a good living by making automobiles and parts and selling them. And these billions of dollars' worth of cars a year are adding more than their cost to general business profits and real estate values.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 15.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up fairly betimes but in dour humor and slept ill. To breakfast with Frazier Hunt, the pamphleteer, who was gayly cavatted and with glossy boots and lemon gloves.

And we talked of school days where I was always a dunce and what with being buffeted by older boys hated it. Too, I remembered how a tutor told me in class my idleness was a disgrace and my stupidity beyond example.

Walked through the town to a society bazaar and bought a few trifles but the cackle and small talk bored me in a way I could not conceal and so away to my lodgings and labour.

In the evening to see an indifferent play and to talk with Quinn Martine, the critic, newly home from Europe and then with my wife for a crushed fruit drink. So to bed.

New York no longer boasts a Tenderloin. The final dying embers were extinguished when a short stretch of monotonous, shuttered houses were torn down on Tenth Avenue a few years ago. Most of the Cyprians were driven to private flats and apartments long before that.

The brazen, drab creatures who clung to shadowed doorways on Broadway are also seen no more. It was predicted that great evils would follow. They proved to be mere predictions. There is still vice in New York just as there is in other cities but it does not hide in darkness.

A police lieutenant tells me he does not know of a street or district in New York in which a lady may not walk in perfect safety. I believe him. Billy McGlor, who once ran one of the most fetid dives in town, said after a raid one night: "Give most of these muckers a little sunshine and decent surroundings and they'll desert these hell holes like rats leaving a sinking ship."

A former waiter at Dolan's famous "ham and"—emporium on Park Row died recently leaving an estate of $50,000. He had long since retired from the fruitage of his lunch hour tips. Dolan's gave up the ghost about seven years ago. It was a plain place where plain food was served on plain tables. Ham and beans at 15 cents was the main dish. It had a noble clientele. Archie Gunn, John Brisben Walker, Julian Ralph, Bill Nye, Bob Ingersoll and Roosevelt had eaten there many times. It was chiefly for men but Hetty Green, in search of a quick meal, dropped in there one day. Dolan, who stood at the front slicing ham, saw her. He was a pompous fellow—as still as a guest towel in the bath room—but he left his stand and walked out to her.

"We serve only gentlemen," he said.

"I am no gentleman but I am a lady and in a hurry," said Mrs. Green, "so serve me." And Dolan waited on her himself.

And Dolan's brings back memories of the circular restaurant on the ground floor of the old Astor House. No restaurant today can boast a daily assemblage of such distinguished visitors. There was a clatter and rowdy hub-bub that made it delightful. Today the restauraneur aims for silence so you can hear a horrendous, screeching jazz band.

"You use too many 'ands' in your articles," writes an indignant college professor in Maine. And what if I do? And who cares? And that is the sort of mood I am in today. So that for you, Mr. Professor, etc., etc., etc.

Every writer is entitled to a pet word. I much prefer a homely little "and" to "intrigued."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Tennessee's Ancient Cities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—The ancient civilizations of the United States always have been more or less a mystery. Archaeological enterprise has unearthed much in the old world, but until lately the North American continent has guarded the secrets of its early inhabitants.

Within the past decade, however, there has been considerable activity along these lines. Scientists have been looking into the past and have uncovered civilizations of many centuries ago. Some have been revealed in Central America; some in Mexico, but the late William Edward Meyer uncovered a civilization in Tennessee which has led to a new field of study.

Near the little railroad station of Pinson, in Madison county, he discovered a city. This was the City of Cisco, center of a civilization that once flourished in North America.

It was a walled city with outer defenses measuring fully six miles in length, with elaborate outer and inner citadels. There are thirty-five mounds of various sizes.

Meyer visited the site in 1916. He found the remains of Cisco in the thickets and swamps and woodlands along the south fork of the Forked Deer river in Madison and Chester counties. It was a central metropolis with outlying towns and villages, much like the modern city and its suburbs. The city itself and the adjoining town were so close together that doubtless their cultivated fields and small isolated truck patches formed a more or less continuous cultivated community for a distance of approximately twelve miles.

Cisco extends along the high banks or bluffs of the Forked Deer river for from two to three miles. It probably was defended on the river side by a tintinuous line of wooden palisades along the edge of the high banks. The river offered further protection on this side. Then there is a great swamp extending the length of the town on the opposite bank of the river.

Six Miles of Defenses.

On the land side there was a long line of earthen walls surmounted by wooden palisades. The total length of the outer defenses was over six miles. The walls of the inner citadel and the other inner defenses add approximately another mile to the total.

Cultivation of fields has removed many of these earthen embankments, but several old inhabitants of the region remember when they existed. In the undisturbed forests and thickets they remain. Of course all trace of wooden palisades has long since vanished.

The thirty-five mounds of Cisco that offer themselves for observation range from very low rises to fair heights. Some of them are not over one foot high, and then the great central found in the inner citadel is seventy-three feet high.

This mound at its base covers an area of 11,000 square feet, while the flat, plateau-like summit contains 2,280 square feet. It is sixth in size of the great mounds of the United States. It commands a view of the surrounding country for many miles in every direction. It is thought that this was the site of the house of Cisco's king, and the strategic center of the city's defense. Around it are several mounds ranging from one-third to one-fourth its size. These mounds were placed at strategic points in every quarter of tehe city.

There is a large mound just beyond the line of walls of the eastern citadel, standing on the summit of the high river bank. This probably was devoted to sacred ceremonies and supported the temple of Cisco. It appears to resemble a bird with outstretched wings. The thunder bird and other sacred birds played an important role in the religious rites of stone age men in this region.

There is evidence that Cisco was the central city and capital of a large region; that it had a population of several thousand and was built by some conqueror king. It was occupied only for a brief period after its completion. The conqueror king was then overthrown and his stronghold taken and destroyed. It was left desolate and never afterward occupied.

Ancient Trails From Cisco.

There was an ancient trail that led from Cisco southwestward to another old fortified town near Bolivar, Tennessee. At Bolivar the terail forked. One prong led to the old Indian crossing of the Mississipi river at the ing of the Mississippi river at the modern Memphis. From here the trail ran to the ancient Indian towns in Arkansas and the southwest.

The other prong led from the city near Bolivar in a southerly direction, running along Pontotoc ridge, near the modern town of Pontotoc, Mississippi. From there it ran along the higher lands west to the Tombigbee river to other ancient cities in the Mobile Bay region.

There was also another trail leading westward, crossing the Tennessee river near modern Johnsonville; thence to the Great Mound group on Harpeth river at the mouth of Dog creek, and from there to another group of ancient towns in the vicinity of Nashville.

This evidence shows the existence of an ancient civilization, with arteries of communication and transportation. It shows that these people were versed in agriculture, religion, startegic defense in war, and had some knowledge of architecture. Also it is highly probable that there was intercourse between the various centers of this civilization. Invaders and time have wiped out most of the traces of this race which, in all probability, antedated the Indians.

Tennessee also divulged another ancient citadel. This was situated on the summit of the tall, long, narrow, double-faced precipitous bluff on the point of land between the Harpeth and Cumberland rivers at their junction in Cheatham county, Tennessee.

This fortress extended along this bluff for a little over 3,000 feet. The bluff is from 150 to 200 feet high, it can be scaled at very few places and then only with difficulty. These places of possible ascent were protected by breastworks or palisades. The ridgelike summit is very narrow, ranging from twenty to 170 feet in width. It bears several mounds and embankments at strategic points. For stone-age man with the weapons of his period this fortress was well nigh impregnable. It was the refuge for the people living thereabout and at the first sign of danger they could be safe within the fortress in less than an hour.

People who occupied this fotress and the nearby settlements are shrouded in mystery. Their pottery, pipes and relics are different from those found elsewhere in Tennessee—at Cisco for instance—or elsewhere in the United States. Their lost story is a tempting field for archeologists.

These men are just beginning to fathom the depths of primitive America. The Tennessee discoveries, coupled with these in Central America, Mexico and in other portions of the United States, are gradually telling the story of the first possessors of the Western Hemisphere.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1925.

The Flag and Good Sense

Flag Day, which will be celebrated today and tomorrow, is observed in the United States because it is the anniversary of the day in 1777 when congress formally adopted the Stars and Stripes as the national flag. It is not a national holiday.

In East Liverpool, the Elks' lodge has arranged special exercises for Tuesday evening, when Rev. W. H. Clark, of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church, will be the speaker. And, too, the lodge has conducted a Flag Day essay contest in which seventh and eighth grade pupils have participated.

Observance of the flag's birthday in recent years has taken the form chiefly of displaying Old Glory on private homes as well as public buildings. Also the American Legion and other bodies have tried in this connection to teach the public a little more about the flag than it seems to know.

There are certain purposes to which the flag may be put; there are definite ways in which it should be displayed. There is a regular code for this which can be followed easily by any intelligent person.

There are, in addition to these formal matters, certain flag courtesies which a thoughtful and self-respecting American citizen ought to be able to observe without instructions. Affection and respect for the flag are good. Maudlin sentimentality on the subject is bad. The "flag incident" which occurred in Toronto on Decoration Day when a local policeman removed the flag from an American tourist's automobile because the British flag was not displayed with it was caused by such sentiment folly. It was discourteous of the American so to display his flag in a friendly foreign country. It was foolish of the policeman to take the incident so seriously.

Sanity in regard to the flag on Flag Day and on all the other days of the year is as important as sanity in the commonplace affairs of daily life.

Applause And Service

A popular movie actor recently visited the dignified city of Toronto and was so enthusiastically welcomed by the public that some serious individuals were disturbed. They lamented that such unbounded admiration should be lavished on a mere screen-player when statesmen and other public benefactors are ignored.

American cities are more accustomed to big demonstrations of popularity for movie folk, baseball players and other idols whose heroism or service may be small in comparison with their popularity.

It is not really such a deplorable thing as the lamenters imagine. Even if keen discrimination is not always shown by the crowd in its choice of a subject for admiration, no permanent injury is done to anybody concerned. The persons who appreciate greatness in statesmanship, literature, art, philosophy and true public service may be in the minority. They are also less demonstrative in their expression of approval. Furthermore, their heroes may be better satisfied by quietly expressed approval than by noisy acclaim. And finally, the great work they do is less interrupted and better served in the long run by the encouragement of understanding friends than by unrestrained applause.

No More Log Cabins

The cances of being born in a log cabin grow less all the time, for two reasons. One is the increasing scarcity of log cabins and the other is the increasing popularity of maternity hospitals. Public Welfare Commissioner Coler, of New York, shrewdly remarks that our future presidents will be born in hospitals.

They will be all the better for it, too. In contemplating the number of great men in our national history who first saw the light in log houses, we usually forget the number of babies that died there for lack of proper equipment and care. The maternity ward is a much safer place.

The log cabin, nevertheless, is regarded with sentimental regret as it disappears. It is woven into our pioneer history and is a lasting symbol of vigor, courage and achievement. It is also picturesque, in a world that is rapidly being sawed, planed and painted to a tame uniformity.

There will be a vogue for log cabins again, sooner or later. But then they will be luxuries. Only the rich will be able to afford them, because they take more lumber than any other kind of construction.

Profitable Autos

There are said to be now 17,500,000 automobiles in operation in the United States. This is too many, as far as roads are concerned, as anyone can see for himself except in specially favored localities. Few highway systems are able to stand the traffic, and few cities have adequate streets and paving. Otherwise the number is neither particularly impressive nor dismaying. A nation of about 115,000,000 people, with more coming every minute, could use several million additional cars without embarrassment.

These automobiles are said to be costing the nation $8,000,000,000 a year. This is a lot of money. Yet it is nothing to be dismayed about in so wealthy a nation. In fact, the automobile is adding to the national wealth rather than detracting from it.

Cars wear out fast, but there are ample compensations. A very considerable part of the population gets a good living by making automobiles and parts and selling them. And these billions of dollars' worth of cars a year are adding more than their cost to general business profits and real estate values.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

ROAD WORK IS BEING RUSHED

Pouring of Concrete on Salineville Route Progressing.

The last concrete will be poured on the Wellsville Salineville road in Yellow Creek township next Saturday or the following Monday, according to Contractor William Keesecker of Youngstown, who has so advised County Surveyor Lloyd C. The Ship never returned
—that never left port

How Can You Expect Your Ship to Come IN —If You Never Send It OUT?

Thousands of customers of The Ohio Power Company and other local people have their ships coming in every three months —every March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1, they get money by mail from the Company. But these folks first sent their ships OUT—they invested in the Company's Preferred Stock. You've heard that "money works," that "money makes money." That is how it's done—by INVESTING. If you invest in only 25 shares of this stock you will be entitled to receive $37.50 every three months from The Ohio Power Company.

Do not confuse "investing" with "speculating." Lots of folks don't realize the difference. "Speculating" means taking chances; running risks; subjecting your hard-earned dollars to perils and hazards—what many people call "stock gambling." INVESTING does not consist of plunging or blindly taking chances. Investing means putting your money to work in some firmly established business where your dollars will be SAFE and where they will steadily and surely earn more dollars for you.

This stock is not a speculation or get-rich-quick scheme but a SAFE INVESTMENT. There can be no reasonable doubt of it in your mind when you consider:

1—The Company Supplies a Necessity—ELECTRICITY. Even in hard times, when other plants close down, the electric light and power plants must be kept running.

2—Company has Valuable Properties. The company is not in the promotional stages. There's no waiting for factories to be built or mines to be dug or wells drilled. The company's power plants and other properties are worth millions of dollars.

3—Demand for its Product. Electricity is always in great demand not only for lighting purposes, but for the operation of other industries—and the demand is constantly increasing.

4—Diversity. The company does not depend on any one class of business or people for its success.

5—Good Management. The management of this company has demonstrated its ability and efficiency.

The Ship never returned

How Can You Expect Your Ship to Come IN —If You Never Send It OUT?

Thousands of customers of The Ohio Power Company and other local people have their ships coming in every three months —every March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1, they get money by mail from the Company. But these folks first sent their ships OUT—they invested in the Company's Preferred Stock. You've heard that "money works," that "money makes money." That is how it's done—by INVESTING. If you invest in only 25 shares of this stock you will be entitled to receive $37.50 every three months from The Ohio Power Company.

Do not confuse "investing" with "speculating." Lots of folks don't realize the difference. "Speculating" means taking chances; running risks; subjecting your hard-earned dollars to perils and hazards—what many people call "stock gambling." INVESTING does not consist of plunging or blindly taking chances. Investing means putting your money to work in some firmly established business where your dollars will be SAFE and where they will steadily and surely earn more dollars for you.

This stock is not a speculation or get-rich-quick scheme but a SAFE INVESTMENT. There can be no reasonable doubt of it in your mind when you consider:

1—The Company Supplies a Necessity—ELECTRICITY. Even in hard times, when other plants close down, the electric light and power plants must be kept running.

2—Company has Valuable Properties. The company is not in the promotional stages. There's no waiting for factories to be built or mines to be dug or wells drilled. The company's power plants and other properties are worth millions of dollars.

3—Demand for its Product. Electricity is always in great demand not only for lighting purposes, but for the operation of other industries—and the demand is constantly increasing.

4—Diversity. The company does not depend on any one class of business or people for its success.

5—Good Management. The management of this company has demonstrated its ability and efficiency.

McGraw Will Send Untried Rookie Into Lineup Against Bucs

Eddie Farrell, Penn Captain, to Replace Groh At Third Base

Hurried Debut of Youngster Who Never Before Has Been on a Big League Diamond Commentary on Present Condition of Leaders; Race Likely to Become Bitter Fight Instead of Parade Before Return of Frisch and Lindstrom.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Official word reached here today that John McGraw will send a young collegian, sight unseen, into the Giant line up at third base against the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon. The young man in question is Eddie Farrell, university of Pennsylvania captain, who played his final college game three days ago and never before has been on a big league diamond. His hurried debut is a fitting commentary on the present condition of the Giants.

A few more weeks like the last one and they will be eased gently but firmly out of the league leadership they have held by such a generous margin all season.

The expected Giant slump is on in earnest and no one knows it better than McGraw. The team has been lucky to win as many games as it did in the west, what with injuries and mediocre pitching. They have got by the trip on their reputation and the loss of three straight games has served to tarnish that.

Before Frisch and Lindstrom return to the pastime, the National league campaign is almost certain to cease being a parade and become a jowl-to-jowl contest between the Giants and Pirates. No club can keep winning with men playing first and third bases with all the graceful mobility of a pair of stationary washstands.

WHATDYA MEAN, CLASS?

Wolcott Whittled the Big Ones Down to His Size

By Norman E. Brown.

Mickey Walker, ambitious welterweight champion, was preparing to drest the world's middleweight championship from Harry Windmill Greb, June 19, when the former forgot his childhood teachings and forced postponement of the bout until July 2.

From the time he started to toddle Mickey was told to "Mind where you're walking. Watch your step." But the other day he got to ambling around the ring, stubbed his toe and found himself with a bum toe nail.

But the slight postponement hasn't quieted interest in the battle however.

Such battles always arouse interest. One of the greatest fighters the game has ever produced won much of his fame by his eagerness to take on and success in dealing with gentlemen weighing many pounds more than himself.

That man was Joe Wolcott, the great negro, labeled the "Giant Killer" because of his ability to take big men and whittle them down to his size.

Knocked Out Choynski.

Wolcott was a welterweight and could make the weight then in vogue, 142 pounds. But one of his greatest victories was over Joe Choynski, light heavyweight and one of the smartest boxers in the game. Joe met Choynski in 1900, before winning the welter crown from Rube Ferns. Joe planned his battle with cunning and carried out his line of attack with consummate skill. Realizing that Choynski's height — he was 10 inches taller — would handicap him (Wolcott) in reaching Choynski's head through his guard the negro spent seven rounds punching Choynski in the stomach. The punishment finally caused Choynski to lower his hands to protect his body. Then Wolcott leaped like a spring board diver and caught Choynski flush on the jaw, dropping him for the full count.

Choynski, before the battle, had fought a 20-round draw with Jim Jeffries, a short draw with Bob Fitzsimmons and had licked a dozen heavies of various ability.

Fights a "Kangaroo."

Wolcott, earlier in his career, took on an Australian named Mick Dunn, a middleweight in rating, a foot taller than Wolcott and some 20 pounds heavier. Wolcott took considerable punishment from Dunn for seven rounds. The fans decided that he had taken on too much in meeting the visiting boxer. Then Wolcott let loose. He drove on Dunn's tummy that made him grunt and grab himself. Then came a deadly right flush on Dunn's jaw. Wolcott was inches off the floor when he struck. Dunn stayed down.

George Gardner, later rated as light heavyweight champion and one of the best big men of his day, lost a 20-round decision to Wolcott.

Dan Creedon, another Australian and a middleweight, tried four times to lick Wolcott and failed every time.

There was another negro, George Cole, a welterweight, who took on the Joe Goddard a generation ago when Goddard boasted 220 pounds, and felled the giant.

Lewis Falls Against Carpentier.

Ted Lewis, Britisher and once welterweight champion, is one of the men who stepped out of his class to take on big game. Lewis failed to achieve much, however. Lewis met Georges Carpentier, a normal light heavy in Europe, but was knocked out.

Walker doesn't give away the weight these boys did. He doesn't have to in meeting Greg. The latter must scale 160 for Walker and the welter weighs around 148 in fighting trim.

There is one thing to be said in Walker's behalf, however. He is the first man to go out of his class to meet the windmill. If he licks the weird gentleman from Pittsburgh, Walker can feel right at home any time he visits Holland.

SEEKS THIRD RACING STAKE

NEW YORK, June 15.—James Butler's great handicap horse, Sting, will attempt to add the third of New York's big stakes to his string when he faces the barrier in the Brooklyn handicap at the opening of the Aqueduct meeting this afternoon. The thoroughbred already has won the metropolitan and suburban handicaps and needs only a victory today to come into general recognition as the greatest thoroughbred in training.

He will be asked to carry to weight of 127 pounds but in spite of this heavy impost was a prevailing favorite. A victory for Sting would equal the record of Whisk Broom II, which also won all three races in the same season.

SEMI-FINALISTS BATTLE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 15.—Four survivors in the New York state athletic commission's lightweight elimination tourney will meet tonight at the Queensboro stadium for the right to battle in the final round for Benny Leonard's vacated title. In the first semi-final tonight, Stanislaus Loayza, of Shill, will face Cirilin Olano, of Cuba, and the second will bring together Benny Valgar, of New York, and Jimmy Goodrich, of Buffalo. Valgar is generally favored to win the event.

WOOSTER LOSES ATHLETIC STARS

WOOSTER, Ohio, June 15.—When the class of 1925 is graduated from Wooster college it will take twenty-seven varsity men from the ranks of Wooster's athletic teams. The graduation of these men will leave some large holes in the ranks of Coach Boles' teams which he will have to fill next year.

Perhaps the most outstanding star is Donald Starn. Rosie is the only four letter man in school. He played fullback in football and was captain the past season, he played center in basketball, threw the discus in track and pitched and played first base in baseball.

Lewis Many, Erie lad, is the only three letter man in the class. Many last season played guard in football and was Wooster'sff outstanding lineman. He played guard in basketball and was captain in his junior year. This past season in track he broke the college record for the shot-put.

Other outstanding athletes who will be missed are Destler in track; Flattery, all Ohio tackle in football; Braden, the varsity pitcher who set down Ohio State; Olin Gabriel center in football and the best college catcher Wooster has ever had; Nate Helm, who now holds Wooster's pole vault record.

Tagging The Bases

Zack Wheat's debut as manager of the Dodgers was a social and economic success amid a shower of base hits and pop bottles. Wheat's men provided the hits, the bleacherites tossed the bottles at a gendarme, the Dodgers won the game and the Reds lost it. Score 12 to 3. It was the Reds' first defeat in nine games.

In an orgy of hitting, the Senators outclassed the Browns and won, 9 to 8, stepping along to within a half game of the leading Athletics.

Our Mr. Ruth smote his second homer of the season and robbed Ty Cobb of another by a leaping gloved-hand catch, the Yankees getting the decision over the Tigers, 8 to 3, behind the laudable pitching of Jones.

A six-run rally in the second eased Graham out of the equation and sent the Cubs on to a 7 to 3 victory over the Braves.

The poor, old Phils finished second once more as Blades and Bell hit successive homers in the sixth and seventh, giving the Cardinals an 11 to 7 verdict.

The Athletics were shut right out for the first time this season when Karr let them down with five hits, the Indians cantering in, 3 to 0.

A nasty little moth, innocent looking though he may be, can and will destroy hundreds of dollars worth of clothes or fabric household furnishings in a very short time.
You can't arrest or punish this destructive animal, but you can end his career if you catch him. The best way, though, to protect your things against his ravages is to prevent his existence—that is, by having them thoroughly dry cleaned and using proper care before storing them for summer.

McGraw Will Send Untried Rookie Into Lineup Against Bucs

Eddie Farrell, Penn Captain, to Replace Groh At Third Base

Hurried Debut of Youngster Who Never Before Has Been on a Big League Diamond Commentary on Present Condition of Leaders; Race Likely to Become Bitter Fight Instead of Parade Before Return of Frisch and Lindstrom.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Official word reached here today that John McGraw will send a young collegian, sight unseen, into the Giant line up at third base against the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon. The young man in question is Eddie Farrell, university of Pennsylvania captain, who played his final college game three days ago and never before has been on a big league diamond. His hurried debut is a fitting commentary on the present condition of the Giants.

A few more weeks like the last one and they will be eased gently but firmly out of the league leadership they have held by such a generous margin all season.

The expected Giant slump is on in earnest and no one knows it better than McGraw. The team has been lucky to win as many games as it did in the west, what with injuries and mediocre pitching. They have got by the trip on their reputation and the loss of three straight games has served to tarnish that.

Before Frisch and Lindstrom return to the pastime, the National league campaign is almost certain to cease being a parade and become a jowl-to-jowl contest between the Giants and Pirates. No club can keep winning with men playing first and third bases with all the graceful mobility of a pair of stationary washstands.

Suzanne Winning Again But Face Tells of Strain

This photo of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis wonder, was taken after her recent victories in the French open tourney. Though she displayed her old-time form, her face showed the strain of the matches.

The opera house at Athens has been converted into apartment dwellings.

CARDINALS WIN TWO CONTESTS

The East Liverpool Cardinals defeated the Kensington Tigers in a home and home series during the week-end. They won at Kensington on Saturday by the count of 4 to 1 and repeated the feat at Sherwood, 7 to 2. The score:

WHATDYA MEAN, CLASS?

Wolcott Whittled the Big Ones Down to His Size

By Norman E. Brown.

Mickey Walker, ambitious welterweight champion, was preparing to drest the world's middleweight championship from Harry Windmill Greb, June 19, when the former forgot his childhood teachings and forced postponement of the bout until July 2.

From the time he started to toddle Mickey was told to "Mind where you're walking. Watch your step." But the other day he got to ambling around the ring, stubbed his toe and found himself with a bum toe nail.

But the slight postponement hasn't quieted interest in the battle however.

Such battles always arouse interest. One of the greatest fighters the game has ever produced won much of his fame by his eagerness to take on and success in dealing with gentlemen weighing many pounds more than himself.

That man was Joe Wolcott, the great negro, labeled the "Giant Killer" because of his ability to take big men and whittle them down to his size.

Knocked Out Choynski.

Wolcott was a welterweight and could make the weight then in vogue, 142 pounds. But one of his greatest victories was over Joe Choynski, light heavyweight and one of the smartest boxers in the game. Joe met Choynski in 1900, before winning the welter crown from Rube Ferns. Joe planned his battle with cunning and carried out his line of attack with consummate skill. Realizing that Choynski's height — he was 10 inches taller — would handicap him (Wolcott) in reaching Choynski's head through his guard the negro spent seven rounds punching Choynski in the stomach. The punishment finally caused Choynski to lower his hands to protect his body. Then Wolcott leaped like a spring board diver and caught Choynski flush on the jaw, dropping him for the full count.

Choynski, before the battle, had fought a 20-round draw with Jim Jeffries, a short draw with Bob Fitzsimmons and had licked a dozen heavies of various ability.

Fights a "Kangaroo."

Wolcott, earlier in his career, took on an Australian named Mick Dunn, a middleweight in rating, a foot taller than Wolcott and some 20 pounds heavier. Wolcott took considerable punishment from Dunn for seven rounds. The fans decided that he had taken on too much in meeting the visiting boxer. Then Wolcott let loose. He drove on Dunn's tummy that made him grunt and grab himself. Then came a deadly right flush on Dunn's jaw. Wolcott was inches off the floor when he struck. Dunn stayed down.

George Gardner, later rated as light heavyweight champion and one of the best big men of his day, lost a 20-round decision to Wolcott.

Dan Creedon, another Australian and a middleweight, tried four times to lick Wolcott and failed every time.

There was another negro, George Cole, a welterweight, who took on the Joe Goddard a generation ago when Goddard boasted 220 pounds, and felled the giant.

Lewis Falls Against Carpentier.

Ted Lewis, Britisher and once welterweight champion, is one of the men who stepped out of his class to take on big game. Lewis failed to achieve much, however. Lewis met Georges Carpentier, a normal light heavy in Europe, but was knocked out.

Walker doesn't give away the weight these boys did. He doesn't have to in meeting Greg. The latter must scale 160 for Walker and the welter weighs around 148 in fighting trim.

There is one thing to be said in Walker's behalf, however. He is the first man to go out of his class to meet the windmill. If he licks the weird gentleman from Pittsburgh, Walker can feel right at home any time he visits Holland.

SEEKS THIRD RACING STAKE

NEW YORK, June 15.—James Butler's great handicap horse, Sting, will attempt to add the third of New York's big stakes to his string when he faces the barrier in the Brooklyn handicap at the opening of the Aqueduct meeting this afternoon. The thoroughbred already has won the metropolitan and suburban handicaps and needs only a victory today to come into general recognition as the greatest thoroughbred in training.

He will be asked to carry to weight of 127 pounds but in spite of this heavy impost was a prevailing favorite. A victory for Sting would equal the record of Whisk Broom II, which also won all three races in the same season.

SEMI-FINALISTS BATTLE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 15.—Four survivors in the New York state athletic commission's lightweight elimination tourney will meet tonight at the Queensboro stadium for the right to battle in the final round for Benny Leonard's vacated title. In the first semi-final tonight, Stanislaus Loayza, of Shill, will face Cirilin Olano, of Cuba, and the second will bring together Benny Valgar, of New York, and Jimmy Goodrich, of Buffalo. Valgar is generally favored to win the event.

WOOSTER LOSES ATHLETIC STARS

WOOSTER, Ohio, June 15.—When the class of 1925 is graduated from Wooster college it will take twenty-seven varsity men from the ranks of Wooster's athletic teams. The graduation of these men will leave some large holes in the ranks of Coach Boles' teams which he will have to fill next year.

Perhaps the most outstanding star is Donald Starn. Rosie is the only four letter man in school. He played fullback in football and was captain the past season, he played center in basketball, threw the discus in track and pitched and played first base in baseball.

Lewis Many, Erie lad, is the only three letter man in the class. Many last season played guard in football and was Wooster's all outstanding lineman. He played guard in basketball and was captain in his junior year. This past season in track he broke the college record for the shot-put.

Other outstanding athletes who will be missed are Destler in track; Flattery, all Ohio tackle in football; Braden, the varsity pitcher who set down Ohio State; Olin Gabriel center in football and the best college catcher Wooster has ever had; Nate Helm, who now holds Wooster's pole vault record.

Tagging The Bases

Zack Wheat's debut as manager of the Dodgers was a social and economic success amid a shower of base hits and pop bottles. Wheat's men provided the hits, the bleacherites tossed the bottles at a gendarme, the Dodgers won the game and the Reds lost it. Score 12 to 3. It was the Reds' first defeat in nine games.

In an orgy of hitting, the Senators outclassed the Browns and won, 9 to 8, stepping along to within a half game of the leading Athletics.

Our Mr. Ruth smote his second homer of the season and robbed Ty Cobb of another by a leaping gloved-hand catch, the Yankees getting the decision over the Tigers, 8 to 3, behind the laudable pitching of Jones.

A six-run rally in the second eased Graham out of the equation and sent the Cubs on to a 7 to 3 victory over the Braves.

The poor, old Phils finished second once more as Blades and Bell hit successive homers in the sixth and seventh, giving the Cardinals an 11 to 7 verdict.

The Athletics were shut right out for the first time this season when Karr let them down with five hits, the Indians cantering in, 3 to 0.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES HELD

Children's day exercises were carried out here last evening in the Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal churches. Numbers of children took part in the respective programs which consisted of songs, recitations and tableaus. Choirs of both churches rendered several selections while appropriate talks were delivered by Rev. E. E. Lashley and Rev. J. W. Schrader, respective pastors.

LAUGHLIN BOOKED FOR TWO GAMES

Homer Laughlin China team of the Industrial baseball league is scheduled for two games this week. This evening Babcock-Wilcox club is listed for a game on the local diamond while on Friday night Barney Bricelin's squad is scheduled to play Wellsville at the latter place. The team is playing good ball and expect to better its standing in the race during the week.

Bible Study Class Meeting.

Members of the Bible Study class of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet this evening in the church. Tomorrow night the night school class will meet at the parsonage. Rev. J. W. Schrader, is the instructor.

Local Men on Jury.

Several local citizens are members of the petit jury which reported for the opening of circuit court today at New Cumberland. Two cases in which murder is charged are listed for trial at this term.

DEFIANCE, June.—Reappraisement of Defiance county real estate in time for use on the new duplicate for the December collections, as required by the recently enacted McDonald act, seems very doubtful, county officials said. Big Men Scarce.
Going Up—Oil, Gas.
Those Cynical Girls
All Good Americans.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

President Coolidge complains that "big men" are scarce. That has always been. Caesar couldn't find leaders for his armies. President Coolidge seeks a man for his tariff commission. Few big, able men, many medium, mediocre men inhabit the earth, fortunately for the average man.

When W. R. Hearst was very young, running the San Francisco Examiner, after leaving Harvard, he complained to his father, Senator George Hearst, that so many men were "fools." The father replied: "That's true, Willie. But let us not be too hard on the fools. If there were not so many of them, life would be less easy for you, me, and some others."

Oil costs more, gasoline will go higher, stocks of oil companies will go up, and when they do, the crop of "get rich quick" geese will be persuaded as usual to buy stock in companies that have no oil.

Remember this, little investors:—
If a thing is really good, the inside gentlemen keep it. They don't offer it to you at a tenth of its value.

The English tourist said to a western restaurant keeper:
"A nice thick porterhouse, please, broiled with mushrooms and tomatoes."
The western gentleman replied:
"If I had anything like that I'd eat it myself."
That's how it is with the oil stocks.

Anna L. Rose, dean of the George Washington university, distributed questions among her 1,200 young girls, and was shocked at the answers. Can you believe it? Many of those gentle, pretty little creatures are "cynics."
They admit liking "risque" amusements and expressed cynical opinions concerning religious beliefs. But cheer up, Dean Rose.

Every human being has moments of cynicism in which he questions the wisdom of the universe, thinks suicide a pretty good institution inclines to believe that powers of evil rule us. But that changes with years.

As for the girl cynic, the cure of her cynicism exists, not far away. That "cure" has nice blue eyes, or brown, thick curly hair, a pleasant smile, and roomy trousers, carefully selected. When the boy meets the girl cynic and begins telling her how the sight of her has confirmed his belief in angels, her cynicism vanishes. All her world becomes a bright pink, and before she knows it, she is hanging baby clothes on the line and is perfectly satisfied with the universe as long as the baby is well.

In their New York church, the Paulist fathers conducted a dialogue based on this question: "Are We Catholics Good Americans?" The fathers probably have some useful plan, but it is difficult to see why the dialogue was necessary.
Every American, regardless of his religion or lack of religion, is a good American if he works for a living, respects the constitution, obeys the laws, recognizes the government of the United States as the supreme power under heaven, and refrains from interfering with the rights of other Americans, as set forth in the constitution, free speech, free thought free newspapers, free religion, and complete separation of church and state.

Dentist Kills His Wife With Gas, Then Hides Body in Well

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 15. — While Dr. Thomas W. Young, Los Angeles dentist, sat calmly in a jail cell under heavy guard today, the wheels of the law were set swiftly turning to bring him to immediate trial for the self-confessed murder of his beautiful and wealthy wife, Grace Young, Los Angeles society woman and California club leader. Dr. Young is 46. His wife was 37.
District Attorney Asa Keyes declared everything of the carefully planned and executed "murder of science" had been uncovered. Following Young's confession and the removal of Mrs. Young's body from a cistern at the dentist's cabin in Beverely Glen, where he buried it after killing his wife February 22.
"I strangled her with somnoform, a heavy dental gas," Dr. Young told the district attorney. "I knew it would kill her quickly and I held the rubber cone in her mouth until she stopped breathing."

Girl, 17, Accused Of Killing Suitor, Takes Witness Stand

NEW YORK, June 15.—Dorothy Perkins, 17, with blonde, bobbed hair, the youngest girl ever tried in New York for murder, took the witness stand in her own defense today. She is accused of having shot and killed Thomas Templeton, one of her admirers, at a party in her home last February.
The frail little defendant made an unconsciously pathetic and appealing figure. She was dressed completely in black, except for white lace collar. She seemed to be trying her best to be self-possessed. Just before she tripped to the stand she had a brief fit of tears when in conference with her counsel.

DR. LEON TUCKER GIVES SERMON ON THEME, 'SECOND COMING OF CHRIST'

Audience Fills Every Nook and Corner of First Baptist Church Sunday Night — Afternoon Meeting Held.

Before an audience that filled every nook and corner of the First Baptist church auditorium and Sunday school room, Fifth street, Dr. Leon M. Tucker, of New York city, thrilled into frequent audible response his hearers on Sunday night, who, despite the intense heat that prevailed, hung on every word of his graphic illumination and development of the theme, "The Second Coming of Christ."
In the afternoon, utilizing a variegated color map, he depicted "The History of the Nations in the Light of the Bible." His morning subject was "A Leper and Two Clean Birds." Large congregations heard him at both of these services.
Equally arresting and contributing greatly to the high spiritual pitch reached at the conclusion of the day's activities were the appearances of Miss Allie May Schmidt, lyric soprano vocalist, whose song renditions in every instance deepened the impression she made at her initial engage-

Iowan Tells How He Met Britain's King at Wembley

NEW YORK, June 15.—"Just a casual exchange of courtesies between King George and myself."
John Cownie, tall, weather beaten glove manufacturer from Des Moines, Iowa, thus nonchalantly described his recent "handshaking" episode with the king of England at the Wembley exposition, when he arrived today on board the Adriatic.
Shaking hands with a king is no more than any other kind of a western handshake, Cownie indicated by his surprise that anyone should have noticed it.
"The king was standing near me at the same booth," Cownie said. "I nodded to him and he returned the nod. I said 'how do you do.' He returned the greeting and I asked him if he'd like to shake the hand af a young American—my son, John. The king said 'certainly.' He said it as if he meant it.

TWO DUMP FIRES IN WEST END

The fire department was called to Patterson Field twice over the weekend to extinguish rubbish fires. The first call came in at 4:40 o'clock Saturday afternoon and another call was received Sunday morning, when the blaze broke out anew. No damage was done
The firemen also extinguished a fire Sunday in an old lumber heap above the Thompson pottery along the C. and P. railroad.

KRUTTSCHNITT, EX-SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAIL CHIEF, IS DEAD

Attack of Heart Failure Follows Operation.

71 YEARS OLD

Began Career as Railroad Engineer at Early Age.

NEW YORK, June 15. — Julius Kruttschnitt, director and retired chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific lines, died today at the Presbyterian hospital. Death was due to a sudden attack of heart failure.
He was 71 years old. He was in the hospital recovering from a slight operation performed last week.
Kruttschnitt retired as chairman, of the executive committee of the southern Pacific on June 1.
Kruttschnitt was for many years one of the most well-known railroad officials in the southwest. Born in New Orleans on July 30, 1854, he began his career as a railroad engineer at an early age as an assistant to Col. William Allen in Baltimore.
In 1885 he became assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific company's Atlantic System lines. In 1895 he became general manager of all the Southern Pacific lines, with headquarters in San Francisco.

Aviation Claims Two More Victims; One Recently Wed

TOLEDO, June 15.—The science of aviation had claimed two additional victims here today. Mauritis Devos and Anton Depaull, two foreign aviators, were instantly killed here yesterday while testing a rotary engine invented by Devos.
The engine developed trouble while the plane was high in the air, and the machine crashed into a freight car in the Pennsylvania yards. A dense fog obscured the view of the ground below.
Depaull had been married only a month. His bride had a premonition he would be killed in the test, but he laughed at her fears.

U. S.-MEXICO RELATIONS NEAR BREAKING POINT FOLLOWING HOT NOTES

President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg Read Calles' Bristling Public Defense From Assault Launched Last Week Upon Return From Week-end Cruise on Mayflower.

MEXICAN STATEMENT HINTS THAT KELLOGG'S CHALLENGE IS INSULT

Although Mexico City Newspapers Emphasize Diplomatic Crisis, People Generally Appear to be Indifferent to Political Tension — Reaction Against Ambassador Sheffield.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg got back to Washington today after a week-end yacht trip on the Mayflower to find that during their absence from the capital President Calles of Mexico had taken the opportunity to publicly defend himself and his government from the assault launched last Friday by the state department.
In an 800-word statement cabled from Mexico City for publication in the United States, Calles accepted the challenge offered by Secretary Kellogg that Mexico must live up to her international obligations, intimated that Mexico had been insulted, that Kellogg had been neither truthful nor just, and declared that the sovereignty of the Mexican government had been threatened.
The upshot of the situation today, following the publication of two of the bluntest and most bristling public statements issued on behalf of governments in this hemisphere for many years, is that relations between the United States and Mexico are again dangerously near the breaking point.

Not Formal Note.
The statement of President Calles had the same status as that of Secretary Kellogg. It was not a formal note, addressed to the government of the United States, but simply an exposition of his views for publication in the newspapers. From one angle, the international debate now under way between the United States and Mexico is an experiment in the new "open diplomacy" in that the general public on both sides af the Rio Grande have been let in on a situation which ordinarily would have been discussed privately between the two governments before publicity was given to formal communications.
The president and his secretary of state are banking on the success of the "open diplomacy," and despite the position taken by Calles they are hopeful that outspoken treatment of the situation will clear the air of any misunderstanding which may exist and pave the way for adjustment of differences between Washington and Mexico City. It was pointed out in diplomatic circles today that the manner in which Calles replied to Kellogg was the only way which he had to make his position clear both at home and abroad and that if he had sat under the American attack he would have made tacit acknowledgement of weakness to the citizens of his own country.

Expect Statement of Policy
MEXICO CITY, June 15.—Although the newspapers here today were emphasizing the diplomatic crisis which has developed between Mexico and the United States, the Mexican people generally appeared to be indifferent to the political tension.
Business continued as usual in the foreign colonies and capitalists were inclined to believe that the outcome of the sharp note the American government sent to Mexico and which drew an equally sharp reply from President Calles, would be a definite

Appeal is Made To American Farmer For Co-operation

BROOKINGS, S. D., June 15. — A frank message from the Coolidge administration that the American farmer must "act in a cooperative spirit to put his own house back in order" was brought into the wheat belt of the middle west today by E. H. Cunningham, of the federal reserve board, in an address to the South Dakota bankers' convention.

Bulgar Minister, 75, Will Become American Citizen

WASHINGTON, June 15.—As a climax to more than 53 years of intermittent absence from his native land, Stephan Panaretoff, who only resigned this month as Bulgarian minister to the United States, has decided to become an American citizen.
News of his decision created astonishment in official Washington as not since the early days of the republic has a foreign diplomat become an American citizen. A precedent was established by Edmond Genet, first French ambassador to the United States, who married a daughter of Governor Clinton of New York, assumed American citizenship and died in this country.
Although past 75 years of age, Panaretoff, who for 10 years has represented Bulgaria at Washington, has accepted a post as lecturer on the Near East at George Washington University.

CHINESE WAR IS "SERIOUS"

Another British Warship is Being Sent to Hankow.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—Open demands that China declare war on Great Britain were being made by Chinese radicals here today.
The demands came as a climax to a was of anti-British feeling that has been sweeping over China as the result of the killing of eight Chinese by British marines in Hankow last week.
Sections of the Chinese press today are publishing warlike editorials urging the immediate severance of diplomatic relations with Britain.

LONDON, June 15. — The foreign powers today looked upon the Chinese situation as "serious," the British foreign office said, and another British warship is being sent to Hankow.

Raid Refreshment Stand, Seize Rum; Owner Fined $305

Chief of Police McDermott, assisted by Captain Conley and Patrolman Lister, Saturday night raided a refreshment stand conducted by William Roan of Ravine street, near Patterson field, confiscating about five gallons of moonshine whisky which Roan is alleged to have been mixing it with pop and selling it at the rate of 50 cents a drink.
The prisoner was taken to the city hall where he was arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown upon charges of possessing and selling intoxicating liquors. He was fined $305.80 and released after he had made arrangements to settle.
Robert Howell, who is alleged to have been with Roan at the time of the raid, was charged with being drunk and paid a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $10.80.

Dr. A. B. Marshall, Former Local Pastor, And His Wife Will Spend Year In China

Resigns Clarinda, Iowa, Charge, Preparatory to Sailing From San Francisco Early in August—Mrs. Marshall Will Teach.

Dr. A. B. Marshall, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, and who recently has been located in Clarinda, Iowa, and his wife, formerly Miss Mary E. Hallock, a former local high school teacher, will leave August 1 for China, where they will visit for at least a year and perhaps remain permanently.
Dr. Marshall recently tendered his resignation as pastor of the Clarinda Presbyterian church, which charge he has held for several years.
Dr. and Mrs. Marshall will leave Clarinda August 1, and on August 8 will sail from San Francisco for China, arriving in Pekin, September 1. Dr. Marshall will engage in conference work at different stations, while his wife will teach in Pekin university. If the climate is favorable, they may remain in the Orient permanently.
Mrs. Adelia M. Hallock, mother of Mrs. Marshall, who is well known here, where she made frequent visits, plans to spend the summer in the east with her son, and will go to California for the winter.
Dr. Marshall was called to the pastorate of the local Presbyterian church in the spring of 1887, succeeding the late Rev. T. V. Milligan, father of T. V. Milligan, of the Milligan Hardware and Supply company. He was pastor here for about eight years. He and Miss Hallock were married about 12 years ago.

LET CONTRACT FOR FIRE HOSE

New York Company Successful Bidder on 1,000 Feet.

The municipal board of control Saturday awarded a contract for 1,000 feet of hose to the Fabric Fire Hose Company of New York at a contract price of $1.25 per foot.

The order was placed, according to Mayor Brown, through the Milligan Hardware & Supply company, local agents for the company. The hose purchased is of the waxed type, similar to hose which has been in service here for approximately 13 years. There were three bidders for the contract.

The hose will be delivered within 30 days. This order is in addition to the 400 feet purchased by the city following the big fire which swept a section of the Fifth street business district on February 22, last.

A contract for 200 feet of chemical hose at 50 cents per foot will likely be awarded to the Fire Equipment corporation of Cleveland today. This order will be placed through the local agent.

The proposed new chassis for the fire department is still under consideration. This contract probably will be signed late this week. A six cylinder car will be purchased.

the use of gas in warfare. A better plan would be to outlaw war itself, if "outlawing" could have any effect. It is probable, and Prof. Haldane maintains the view with energy, and facts, that outlawing gas would do no good.

Every new idea in war is denounced as outrageous and cruel. The fact is that poison gas would probably end wars much more quickly than they could possibly be ended by bullets and explosives apd with smaller loss of life.

There might be more suffering with fewer deaths, but one would balance the other.

A million men shed bitter tears with mustard gas in their eyes and noses and recover, a hundred thousand men lie on the battlefields with festering wounds to die eventually, while the mustard gas men get well. Which would you choose?

It must be remembered that men are always horrified with what is new, and take for granted every atrocious thing that is old. Age lends respectability to poverty, injustice, disease and bayonets.

The noble chevalier, Bayard, "without fear and without reproach" went to war as a young man, dressed in armor to face spears and arrows only. When gunpowder came along, he thought it was horrible, and ought to be outlawed. And he executed without mercy every enemy soldier captured with a musket in his hands. Those with bows and arrow he treated kindly.

We simply look on poison gas as Bayard looked on powder. We are used to the powder. That's the only differnce.

Throughout the nation 250 died during the heat wave. That is 250 too many, and 90 per cent of the dead would not have died had they been in better physical condition.

We may make a great fuss about a heat wave and make little fuss about a disease wave. Thousands die of consumption, tens of thousands of women die in childbirth. Such deaths could be prevented. But we don't get excited about that. We are used to such things.

Besides, a majority of us escape death by tuberculosis, or death in childbirth, whereas we cannot escape the heat. It interests us because it hits us.

Chinese War

Eight Chinese rioters were killed at Hankow several days ago by British marines and the Chinese government has made an official protest to Great Britain against the incident.

The powers are in complete accord and while there are no plans for immediate intervention, representatives of the powers are negotiating in Pekin, the foreign office said.

Seven hundred Yunnanese soldiers were butchered by the victorious Cantonese troops who recaptured Canton from the Yunnanese last Friday, a dispatch to the Central News from Canton today declared.

Refugees described atrocities in Canton as worse than any committed in Persian battles.

Many of the Yunnanese captured in the fall of the city later were set free only to be beaten and stoned to death in the streets. Others were drowned at the harbor. One Yunnanese officer was crucified on a telephone pole.

One Yunnanese was saved from the mob by the intervention of British and American sailors outside the French concession.

C. M. Faure, commander of the steamer Faure, addressed this same mob, and an American, Dr. Biddle, aided in the rescue of the Yunnanese.

ment here; Miss Cora Belle Young, who again captivated with her violin executions, and Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, who continued her brilliant manipulation of the harp.

Owing to a slight indisposition Miss Coons was not able to be out at the morning service, and for the evening did not assist in the final musical numbers with the banjo.

Culminating the doings of the day with the key song of the campaign, "Into My Heart Lord Jesus," which followed the hymn, Jesup's "Lover of My Soul," sung by Miss Schmidt, and accompanied by Dr. Tucker with guitar and Miss Young with violin to the tune of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," in which the listeners joined, an enthusiasm was reached that presages accentuated interest in the remaining sessions of the series.

Announcement was made that Dr. Tucker would speak on "What Sixteen Prophets Have to Say of Jesus Christ" on Monday evening. Afternoon services will be held Tuesday, Wednesday nad Thursday.

Song Service in Evening.

For the benefit of those who had not been previously present the various members of the party were again introduced by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, the church pastor.

A song service, directed by Harry Chilton, preceded Dr. Tucker's address in the evening, which was followed by prayers by Mr. Chilton and Julius Kosminski. Then those in the party indulged in repetition of scriptural quotations anent the second coming of Christ. Miss Coons pleased with a harp number; Miss Cora Belle Young, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. A. H. Ellis, the local church's organist, gave a violin offering, Fritz Kreister's "Evening Bells."

Miss Cchmidt's pre-discourse song, accompanied by harp and violin, was "Nothing Satisfies But Jesus." The invocation was made by Mrs. Jesse McKee Coons, who has charge of the afternoon prayer services of the meeting.

The fact of Christ's second coming, once assimilated, will become the key of every book in the Bible, maintained Dr. Tucker. 'But only God alone can reveal this truth," he added.

Dr. Tucker took the pre-millenium view-point of the much contraverted second coming which conclusion he averred "opened the Bible to me early in life."

From Genesis to Revelations he contended the theme running throughout biblical literature makes for two advents of Jesus Christ, "that on the cross for expiation and the other by the clouds for administration."

In the apostolic age, he asserted, it was deemed "apostacy not to sigh at any reference to the coming of the Lord."

Accordingly, he explained, since the Lord Jesus Christ broke in on my vision I have constantly preached no less a person than Christ and no less a book than the Bible.

The coming of Christ he affirmed would make for the pacification of nations which in 6,000 years have had but 227 years of peace, the beautification of creation, the restoration of national history, the regeneration of the earth and the universal coronation of a king.

During his day's address Dr. Tucker paid tributes to William Jennings Bryan and Billy Sunday. The former, he said, no matter what his political errors may have been, was now doing the greatest work of his life in defending the tenets of the Bible, while the latter should not be particularly criticized for his style and methods because of the great good he has done and is accomplishing.

Morning Sermon.

Leprosy is God's figure of sin, declared Dr. Tucker in the morning sermon on "One Leper and Two Clean Birds," in which he vividly portrayed the steps taken by priests under the Mosaic law to indicate cleanliness in those held to have been cured which he further asserted were typical of Christ's sacrifice, resurrection and present intercessory activities.

In the course of his sermon Dr. Tucker averred the truisms: Every man, woman and child needs sympathy and love; who boasts of ancestors is, says Plato, like potatoes underground; nothing in life is so base as ingratitude; people we do the most for frequently treat us the worst; there is nothing ordinary or inconsequential with God; the moment one gets proud he is on dangerous ground; when people praise you it is time for you to begin praying; if anything will soften the heart it is the word "mother;" the love of God in my heart is the only reason I can love any one.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 15.—Bearish traders made a strenuous effort to upset the stock market in the early trading today, concerning their heaviest selling on the oil stocks which, because of their prolonged advance in the last week or two, were considered the vulnerable section of the market. Pan-American was pounded down to 77 in the first few minutes of trading for a loss of 3½ points and numerous other oil shares sustained fractional losses. American Can lost a point, Baldwin Locomotive and a number of the railroad stocks sustained slight losses.

United States Steel, at the head of the steel and industrial stocks led a strong upward movement, which was also participated in by the public utility stocks, and later by the rails. The motors stocks, which had been mixed in their market movements at the opening, gained strength all along the line and finally the oil stocks joined the upward procession. The bears appeared to be unsuccessful in this attempt to start the market on a downward journey.

United States Steel added another point to its two point gain of last week and sold up to 117¼. Gulf States was up 1½ at 83. Crucible gained a point at 69, and low priced steel shares, like Replogle and Otis, made fractional gains. Maxwell Motors was up two points. American Beet Sugar responded to the president's refusal to cut sugar tariffs. Electric Light and Power led the utility stocks in a two point rise and Consolidated Gas was active and strong. The oil stocks regained their early losses, with the exception of Pan-American, but were not as prominent in the trading as in the last three sessions of last week.

What are "Grounds for Divorce?"

This question seems to be tearing our modern civilization to pieces. Each day the papers blaze forth in headlines all about the "So-and-so's Sensational Divorce Suit."

Consider for a moment the case of the Sorbiers.

Maurice Sorbier, a highly successful French attorney, married Alice. She was beautiful. He was handsome and rich. What more could a newly married couple wish for? Nothing until it happened.

Their first wedding anniversary finds him wrapped up in his latest case, never for a moment giving a thought to the theatre party his wife has so carefully planned for the occasion.

A misunderstanding develops into a small size riot and ends up in a divorce. Alice marries again; Maurice is mixed up in an affair with a French actress, his latest client; the girl finds her new husband worse than the first and has Maurice help her obtain a divorce, and they are remarried.

Great stuff for a movie, what! And what a laughing matter Paramount has made of it!

It is the attraction at the Ceramic theatre.

Florence Vidor, Matt Moore and Louise Fazenda, screen comedienne, are featured in the leading roles of the production, written for the screen by Violet Clark from Ernest Vajda's Broadway stage success of the same name, which in turn was adapted by Guy Bolton.

statement of policy by each government. The representative of Henry Ford announced that the diplomatic interchange would not halt the building of a Ford motor factory here.

Reaction in Mexican governmental circles was against Ambassador Sheffield rather than the American government. Mexican politicians blamed Sheffield for the stern note which Secretary of State Kellogg dispatched.

Believe Breach Can Be Healed.

Government officials held that Kellogg should have delivered his note to Mexican Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez, in Washington, for transmission to President Calles if he was dissatisfied with conditions in Mexico, and not to have released it for publication.

Conservative officials believe the breach can be healed without a surrender of dignity on either side. The impression is becoming a conviction in governmental circles that Ambassador Sheffield will not return to Mexico. It was pointed out that Sheffield's health is not good and that he cannot stand the high altitude of Mexico City.

The reference in President Calles' not to the affairs of other nations was thought to refer to Sheffield's interest in the recent British tramway strike and developments growing out of the assassination of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, by agrarians.

TRAIN KILLS JUNE GRONER

"Accidental Death" Verdict in Columbiana Fatality.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, Saturday, returned a verdict of "accidental death" in connection with the killing of June Groner, 76, of Columbiana, who was struck by a fast express train, known as the Cleveland flyer, at the Main street crossing in Columbiana Friday night.

Groner, carrying a basket and a sickle, had stopped at the railroad crossing while a westbound freight train was passing. He then started across the tracks nad because of deafness evidently failed to hear the eastbound passenger train approaching on the next track.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Groner, and was born near Lisbon, March 23, 1849. He had lived in Columbiana for about 30 years and for many years was employed by a Columbiana lumber firm. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Groner and three sons, Charles, Amos and Ralph Groner, of Canton, and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Backins, Youngstown; Mrs. J. E. Fuhrman, Akron, and Mrs. Nelson Kyser, Columbiana, and two brothers and one sister, Simon and Miss Rebecca Groner, of Leetonia, and George Groner, of Columbiana.

Mr. Carpenter:

Let us look at this wage-increase proposition from the viewpoint of the fellows who would have to pay up if you won your strike—the men who work in the potteries, in the mills, in the stores and the offices. They would probably ask two questions about this dispute:

First: Do the Carpenters need an increase?

Second: Can the public afford to pay an increase?

As for the carpenters needing an increase: Their living costs are not going up. Costs in general are coming down, if anything. The carpenters were well paid under the old scale—$10 a day. That's more than the average man makes nowadays. There is no economic need for an increase.

As for the ability of the public to pay more: The wages of the average man are not going up; probably coming down. Many are not working full time. Plenty of people are having all they can do to meet present expenses, without having new burdens added to them.

If the carpenters win, the public loses. It's the people's battle. All the contractors are asking is that the whole dispute be put up to a board of arbitration. Someone, sometime, is going to step in and bring this thing to arbitration for the good of the community. It will probably end speedily then. This ought to be done now. No one profits by a strike.

MARY L. ICE WINS ESSAY CONTEST

Wellsville lodge No. 1040, B. P. O. Elks, held its annual flag day services yesterday afternoon in front of the home in Riverside avenue before an audience of several hundred persons, in addition to more than a hundred school children.

Attorney L. M. Kyes, of East Palestine, delivered the chief address of the afternoon, making a patriotic talk in which the history of the Stars and Stripes was related.

Submitting, in the opinion of the judges, the best essay of approximately 125 entered in the eighth grade school children's contest, Mary L. Ice received the first prize award of $10 in gold.

The second award, $5 in gold, went to Raymond Couts, and the third, $2.50, to Margaret Irwin.

The three prize winning essays were read by their respective authors following the Elks' services. Each of the 125 contestants received a small silk American flag.

Sixteen pupils received honorable mention. They are: Opal Cline, James L. Greene, James Snowden, Zana Holliday, Mildred Phillips, Roland Taylor, Evelyn W. Beech, Virginia Crowl, Mary Olive Banfield, Esther May Hough, Margaret Wyper, Hazel Smith, Ruth Hamilton, Grace Marie Allman, Ruby Reed and Margaret Roberts.

Following introductory exercises by Exalted Ruler Earl Adams and lodge officers, Rev. Harry Stewart, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, made the invocation. The altar service was performed by Esquire E. T. Fogo and lodge officers. George B. Fraser gave the Elks' tribute to the flag. Several musical selections were given by Stillwell's orchestra.

Mary Ice's prize winning essay follows:

"Our flag and our people have gone through many battles and hardships to give us today such a great nation.

"From the discovery of America until the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, the thirteen colonies were governed by England under the English flag, but after this time the colonies were separated from England.

"General Washington and the other chief generals of the Revolutionary war thought it wise to make a flag of our own as a symbol of our country, which is the purpose of a flag. They thought that a flag of their own would help the soldiers to remember what they were fighting for and it would encourage them to fight.

"The first flag was made in Philadelphia in 1776 by Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, with the suggestion of the generals.

"The flag was made in the form of a rectangle, having six white stripes and seven red stripes. Altogether there were thirteen stripes representing the thirteen colonies. In the upper left hand corner was placed thirteen white stars with five points in a circle on a blue background, representing the colonies.

"Betsy Ross, which she was most commonly called, was a dress-maker. She made this flag from sailors' and soldiers' old suits. We got the stars from the stars in heaven, the red stripes from our mother country and we separated them by white stripes to show that we were separated from her. The red stands for the blood shed on the battlefields for justice, whites tands for purity, and blue stands for loyalty.

"On June 14,1777 Congress passed an act saying that this flag should be our permanent flag of the thirteen states.

"Betsy Ross continued to make flags for our government for about 50 years. In the following battles of the Revolutionary war, our flag was at the head of our army and navy.

"As years went on and states were added to the union, more stars were added to the blue field until now we have 48 states and 48 stars. The number of stripes has never been changed. This suggestion was made by S. C. Reid and was suggested because it represents the original colonies.

"Our flag has gone through the latter part of the Revolutionary war, the War of 1812, the Civil war, Spanish-American war, and the great World war.

"On June 14 of every year all patriotic citizens of the United States observe this day as the birthday of the nation."

TAIL END TEAMS TO PLAY SERIES

Fifth place in the City Industrial baseball league is at stake in the impending contests between the Wellsville C. & P. club and the Babcock-Wilcox nine, of Oakland, East Liverpool.

The rivals will clash on Tuesday evening on the Oakland lot and again on Thursday evening at Central park, Wellsville. The morale of the Wellsville club has improved greatly in recent days, the club leaders assert, and the locals will be out to clean up in the series.

Percy Wyant and George Kunzler, pitchers, are both expected to report for duty this week.

A benefit contest is being planned for Pitcher Manning, who was injured in a recent game with Chester. One of the league teams will be booked for the engagement on a date to be decided upon within the near future.

FACES HIGHWAY ROBBERY COUNT

Pleading not guilty to a charge of highway robbery, Will McLain, Jr., arrested by police Saturday, is in jail here, awaiting transportation to Lisbon, after being bound over to the grand jury. His bond was placed at $1,000. McLain will go to the county jail today unless the bond is raised.

McLain, police say, is held in connection with the robbery of a shack in the rural section several miles north of the city five months ago.

Samuel Foster, who lived in the shack, asserted at the time that he was robbed of approximately $150.

In police court Saturday, Foster is said to have identified McLain as the man who robbed him.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, JUNE 15, 1925.

The Flag and Good Sense

Flag Day, which will be celebrated today and tomorrow, is observed in the United States because it is the anniversary of the day in 1777 when congress formally adopted the Stars and Stripes as the national flag. It is not a national holiday.

In East Liverpool, the Elks' lodge has arranged special exercises for Tuesday evening, when Rev. W. H. Clark, of the Emmanuel Presbyterian church, will be the speaker. And, too, the lodge has conducted a Flag Day essay contest in which seventh and eighth grade pupils have participated.

Observance of the flag's birthday in recent years has taken the form chiefly of displaying Old Glory on private homes as well as public buildings. Also the American Legion and other bodies have tried in this connection to teach the public a little more about the flag than it seems to know.

There are certain purposes to which the flag may be put; there are definite ways in which it should be displayed. There is a regular code for this which can be followed easily by any intelligent person.

There are, in addition to these formal matters, certain flag courtesies which a thoughtful and self-respecting American citizen ought to be able to observe without instructions. Affection and respect for the flag are good. Maudlin sentimentality on the subject is bad. The "flag incident" which occurred in Toronto on Decoration Day when a local policeman removed the flag from an American tourist's automobile because the British flag was not displayed with it was caused by such sentiment folly. It was discourteous of the American so to display his flag in a friendly foreign country. It was foolish of the policeman to take the incident so seriously.

Sanity in regard to the flag on Flag Day and on all the other days of the year is as important as sanity in the commonplace affairs of daily life.

Applause And Service

A popular movie actor recently visited the dignified city of Toronto and was so enthusiastically welcomed by the public that some serious individuals were disturbed. They lamented that such unbounded admiration should be lavished on a mere screen-player when statesmen and other public benefactors are ignored.

American cities are more accustomed to big demonstrations of popularity for movie folk, baseball players and other idols whose heroism or service may be small in comparison with their popularity.

It is not really such a deplorable thing as the lamenters imagine. Even if keen discrimination is not always shown by the crowd in its choice of a subject for admiration, no permanent injury is done to anybody concerned. The persons who appreciate greatness in statesmanship, literature, art, philosophy and true public service may be in the minority. They are also less demonstrative in their expression of approval. Furthermore, their heroes may be better satisfied by quietly expressed approval than by noisy acclaim. And finally, the great work they do is less interrupted and better served in the long run by the encouragement of understanding friends than by unrestrained applause.

No More Log Cabins

The cances of being born in a log cabin grow less all the time, for two reasons. One is the increasing scarcity of log cabins and the other is the increasing popularity of maternity hospitals. Public Welfare Commissioner Coler, of New York, shrewdly remarks that our future presidents will be born in hospitals.

They will be all the better for it, too. In contemplating the number of great men in our national history who first saw the light in log houses, we usually forget the number of babies that died there for lack of proper equipment and care. The maternity ward is a much safer place.

The log cabin, nevertheless, is regarded with sentimental regret as it disappears. It is woven into our pioneer history and is a lasting symbol of vigor, courage and achievement. It is also picturesque, in a world that is rapidly being sawed, planed and painted to a tame uniformity.

There will be a vogue for log cabins again, sooner or later. But then they will be luxuries. Only the rich will be able to afford them, because they take more lumber than any other kind of construction.

Profitable Autos

There are said to be now 17,500,000 automobiles in operation in the United States. This is too many, as far as roads are concerned, as anyone can see for himself except in specially favored localities. Few highway systems are able to stand the traffic, and few cities have adequate streets and paving. Otherwise the number is neither particularly impressive nor dismaying. A nation of about 115,000,000 people, with more coming every minute, could use several million additional cars without embarrassment.

These automobiles are said to be costing the nation $8,000,000,000 a year. This is a lot of money. Yet it is nothing to be dismayed about in so wealthy a nation. In fact, the automobile is adding to the national wealth rather than detracting from it.

Cars wear out fast, but there are ample compensations. A very considerable part of the population gets a good living by making automobiles and parts and selling them. And these billions of dollars' worth of cars a year are adding more than their cost to general business profits and real estate values.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 15.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up fairly betimes but in dour humor and slept ill. To breakfast with Frazier Hunt, the pamphleteer, who was gayly cavatted and with glossy boots and lemon gloves.

And we talked of school days where I was always a dunce and what with being buffeted by older boys hated it. Too, I remembered how a tutor told me in class my idleness was a disgrace and my stupidity beyond example.

Walked through the town to a society bazaar and bought a few trifles but the cackle and small talk bored me in a way I could not conceal and so away to my lodgings and labour.

In the evening to see an indifferent play and to talk with Quinn Martine, the critic, newly home from Europe and then with my wife for a crushed fruit drink. So to bed.

New York no longer boasts a Tenderloin. The final dying embers were extinguished when a short stretch of monotonous, shuttered houses were torn down on Tenth Avenue a few years ago. Most of the Cyprians were driven to private flats and apartments long before that.

The brazen, drab creatures who clung to shadowed doorways on Broadway are also seen no more. It was predicted that great evils would follow. They proved to be mere predictions. There is still vice in New York just as there is in other cities but it does not hide in darkness.

A police lieutenant tells me he does not know of a street or district in New York in which a lady may not walk in perfect safety. I believe him. Billy McGlor, who once ran one of the most fetid dives in town, said after a raid one night: "Give most of these muckers a little sunshine and decent surroundings and they'll desert these hell holes like rats leaving a sinking ship."

A former waiter at Dolan's famous "ham and"—emporium on Park Row died recently leaving an estate of $50,000. He had long since retired from the fruitage of his lunch hour tips. Dolan's gave up the ghost about seven years ago. It was a plain place where plain food was served on plain tables. Ham and beans at 15 cents was the main dish. It had a noble clientele. Archie Gunn, John Brisben Walker, Julian Ralph, Bill Nye, Bob Ingersoll and Roosevelt had eaten there many times. It was chiefly for men but Hetty Green, in search of a quick meal, dropped in there one day. Dolan, who stood at the front slicing ham, saw her. He was a pompous fellow—as still as a guest towel in the bath room—but he left his stand and walked out to her.

"We serve only gentlemen," he said.

"I am no gentleman but I am a lady and in a hurry," said Mrs. Green, "so serve me." And Dolan waited on her himself.

And Dolan's brings back memories of the circular restaurant on the ground floor of the old Astor House. No restaurant today can boast a daily assemblage of such distinguished visitors. There was a clatter and rowdy hub-bub that made it delightful. Today the restauraneur aims for silence so you can hear a horrendous, screeching jazz band.

"You use too many 'ands' in your articles," writes an indignant college professor in Maine. And what if I do? And who cares? And that is the sort of mood I am in today. So that for you, Mr. Professor, etc., etc., etc.

Every writer is entitled to a pet word. I much prefer a homely little "and" to "intrigued."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Tennessee's Ancient Cities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—The ancient civilizations of the United States always have been more or less a mystery. Archaeological enterprise has unearthed much in the old world, but until lately the North American continent has guarded the secrets of its early inhabitants.

Within the past decade, however, there has been considerable activity along these lines. Scientists have been looking into the past and have uncovered civilizations of many centuries ago. Some have been revealed in Central America; some in Mexico, but the late William Edward Meyer uncovered a civilization in Tennessee which has led to a new field of study.

Near the little railroad station of Pinson, in Madison county, he discovered a city. This was the City of Cisco, center of a civilization that once flourished in North America.

It was a walled city with outer defenses measuring fully six miles in length, with elaborate outer and inner citadels. There are thirty-five mounds of various sizes.

Meyer visited the site in 1916. He found the remains of Cisco in the thickets and swamps and woodlands along the south fork of the Forked Deer river in Madison and Chester counties. It was a central metropolis with outlying towns and villages, much like the modern city and its suburbs. The city itself and the adjoining town were so close together that doubtless their cultivated fields and small isolated truck patches formed a more or less continuous cultivated community for a distance of approximately twelve miles.

Cisco extends along the high banks or bluffs of the Forked Deer river for from two to three miles. It probably was defended on the river side by a tintinuous line of wooden palisades along the edge of the high banks. The river offered further protection on this side. Then there is a great swamp extending the length of the town on the opposite bank of the river.

Six Miles of Defenses.

On the land side there was a long line of earthen walls surmounted by wooden palisades. The total length of the outer defenses was over six miles. The walls of the inner citadel and the other inner defenses add approximately another mile to the total.

Cultivation of fields has removed many of these earthen embankments, but several old inhabitants of the region remember when they existed. In the undisturbed forests and thickets they remain. Of course all trace of wooden palisades has long since vanished.

The thirty-five mounds of Cisco that offer themselves for observation range from very low rises to fair heights. Some of them are not over one foot high, and then the great central found in the inner citadel is seventy-three feet high.

This mound at its base covers an area of 11,000 square feet, while the flat, plateau-like summit contains 2,280 square feet. It is sixth in size of the great mounds of the United States. It commands a view of the surrounding country for many miles in every direction. It is thought that this was the site of the house of Cisco's king, and the strategic center of the city's defense. Around it are seveeral mounds ranging from one-third to one-fourth its size. These mounds were placed at strategic points in every quarter of tehe city.

There is a large mound just beyond the line of walls of the eastern citadel, standing on the summit of the high river bank. This probably was devoted to sacred ceremonies and supported the temple of Cisco. It appears to resemble a bird with outstretched wings. The thunder bird and other sacred birds played an important role in the religious rites of stone-age men in this region.

There is evidence that Cisco was the central city and capital of a large region; that it had a population of several thousand and was built by some conqueror king. It was occupied only for a brief period after its completion. The conqueror king was then overthrown and his stronghold taken and destroyed. It was left desolate and never afterward occupied.

Ancient Trails From Cisco.

There was an ancient trail that led from Cisco southwestward to another old fortified town near Bolivar, Tennessee. At Bolivar the terail forked. One prong led to the old Indian crossing of the Mississipi river at the ing of the Mississippi riever at the modern Memphis. From here the trail ran to the ancient Indian towns in Arkansas and the southwest.

The other prong led from the city near Bolivar in a southerly direction, running along Pontotoc ridge, near the modern town of Pontotoc, Mississippi. From there it ran along the higher lands west to the Tombigbee river to other ancient cities in the Mobile Bay region.

There was also another trail leading westward, crossing the Tennessee river near modern Johnsonville; thence to the Great Mound group on Harpeth river at the mouth of Dog creek, and from there to another group of ancient towns in the vicinity of Nashville.

This evidence shows the existence of an ancient civilization, with arteries of communication and transportation. It shows that these people were versed in agriculture, religion, startegic defense in war, and had some knowledge of architecture. Also it is highly probable that there was intercourse between the various centers of this civilization. Invaders and time have wiped out most of the traces of this race which, in all probability, antedated the Indians.

Tennessee also divulged another ancient citadel. This was situated on the summit of the tall, long, narrow, double-faced precipitous bluff on the point of land between the Harpeth and Cumberland rivers at their junction in Cheatham county, Tennessee.

This fortress extended along this bluff for a little over 3,000 feet. The bluff is from 150 to 200 feet high, it can be scaled at very few places and then only with difficulty. These places of possible ascent were protected by breastworks or palisades. The ridgelike summit is very narrow, ranging from twenty to 170 feet in width. It bears several mounds and embankments at strategic points. For stone-age man with the weapons of his period this fortress was well nigh impregnable. It was the refuge for the people living thereabout and at the first sign of danger they could be safe within the fortress in less than an hour.

People who occupied this fotress and the nearby settlements are shrouded in mystery. Their pottery, pipes and relics are different from those found elsewhere in Tennessee—at Cisco for instance—or elsewhere in the United States. Their lost story is a tempting field for archeologists.

These men are just beginning to fathom the depths of primitive America. The Tennessee discoveries, coupled with these in Central America, Mexico and in other portions of the United States, are gradually telling the story of the first possessors of the Western Hemisphere.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Advertising!

Advertising had its infancy in the by-gone days when Mrs. Smith used to call on Mrs. Jones and breathlessly whispered to her what beautiful calicoes she bought down at Bills' village store for her new gown.

This was news.

As a result Mrs. Jones was conscious that Bill had down in his store new calicoes to sell.

Since, things have changed

We now employ the highly efficient press to carry our gossip of what we have new in our store.

Well written and truthful advertising is interesting reading and imparts information of economical value.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

ROAD WORK IS BEING RUSHED

Pouring of Concrete on Salineville Route Progressing.

The last concrete will be poured on the Wellsville Salineville road in Yellow Creek township next Saturday or the following Monday, according to Contractor William Keesecker of Youngstown, who has so advised County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. While a considerable portion of this road has "set" the last sections will remain closed to traffic for from 15 to 20 days after the last concrete has been poured.

It is intimated by the state highway department that the contract for the surfacing of this road in Yellow Creek township, east from Highlandtown to join the brick road out of Wellsville, will be let by the Columbus department probably July 10, and that one provision of the contract will be that the road be finished this fall. By this plan, Salineville will be "out of the mud" before winter sets in.

Rapid progress is being made upon the surfacing of the East Rochester-North Georgetown road, which is being surfaced a distance of about six and one-half miles. This road is expected to be opened to traffic within the next two months.

The state highway department also proposes to open bids July 10 for the grading of the Hanover-Salem road in Hanover township July 10. This road has been graded in Butler township.

The Ship never returned

—that never left port

How Can You Expect Your Ship to Come IN —If You Never Send It OUT?

Thousands of customers of The Ohio Power Company and other local people have their ships coming in every three months —every March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1, they get money by mail from the Company. But these folks first sent their ships OUT—they invested in the Company's Preferred Stock. You've heard that "money works," that "money makes money." That is how it's done—by INVESTING. If you invest in only 25 shares of this stock you will be entitled to receive $37.50 every three months from The Ohio Power Company.

Do not confuse "investing" with "speculating." Lots of folks don't realize the difference. "Speculating" means taking chances; running risks; subjecting your hard-earned dollars to perils and hazards—what many people call "stock gambling." INVESTING does not consist of plunging or blindly taking chances. Investing means putting your money to work in some firmly established business where your dollars will be SAFE and where they will steadily and surely earn more dollars for you.

This stock is not a speculation or get-rich-quick scheme but a SAFE INVESTMENT. There can be no reasonable doubt of it in your mind when you consider:

1—The Company Supplies a Necessity—ELECTRICITY. Even in hard times, when other plants close down, the electric light and power plants must be kept running.

2—Company has Valuable Properties. The company is not in the promotional stages. There's no waiting for factories to be built or mines to be dug or wells drilled. The company's power plants and other properties are worth millions of dollars.

3—Demand for its Product. Electricity is always in great demand not only for lighting purposes, but for the operation of other industries—and the demand is constantly increasing.

4—Diversity. The company does not depend on any one class of business or people for its success.

5—Good Management. The management of this company has demonstrated its ability and efficiency.

McGraw Will Send Untried Rookie Into Lineup Against Bucs

Eddie Farrell, Penn Captain, to Replace Groh At Third Base

Hurried Debut of Youngster Who Never Before Has Been on a Big League Diamond Commentary on Present Condition of Leaders; Race Likely to Become Bitter Fight Instead of Parade Before Return of Frisch and Lindstrom.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Official word reached here today that John McGraw will send a young collegian, sight unseen, into the Giant line up at third base against the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon. The young man in question is Eddie Farrell, university of Pennsylvania captain, who played his final college game three days ago and never before has been on a big league diamond. His hurried debut is a fitting commentary on the present condition of the Giants.

A few more weeks like the last one and they will be eased gently but firmly out of the league leadership they have held by such a generous margin all season.

The expected Giant slump is on in earnest and no one knows it better than McGraw. The team has been lucky to win as many games as it did in the west, what with injuries and mediocre pitching. They have got by the trip on their reputation and the loss of three straight games has served to tarnish that.

Before Frisch and Lindstrom return to the pastime, the National league campaign is almost certain to cease being a parade and become a jowl-to-jowl contest between the Giants and Pirates. No club can keep winning with men playing first and third bases with all the graceful mobility of a pair of stationary washstands.

Suzanne Winning Again But Face Tells of Strain

CARDINALS WIN TWO CONTESTS

WHATDYA MEAN, CLASS?

Wolcott Whittled the Big Ones Down to His Size

By Norman E. Brown.

Mickey Walker, ambitious welterweight champion, was preparing to drest the world's middleweight championship from Harry Windmill Greb, June 19, when the former forgot his childhood teachings and forced postponement of the bout until July 2.

From the time he started to toddle Mickey was told to "Mind where you're walking. Watch your step." But the other day he got to ambling around the ring, stubbed his toe and found himself with a bum toe nail.

But the slight postponement hasn't quieted interest in the battle however.

Such battles always arouse interest. One of the greatest fighters the game has ever produced won much of his fame by his eagerness to take on and success in dealing with gentlemen weighing many pounds more than himself.

That man was Joe Wolcott, the great negro, labeled the "Giant Killer" because of his ability to take big men and whittle them down to his size.

Knocked Out Choynski.

Wolcott was a welterweight and could make the weight then in vogue, 142 pounds. But one of his greatest victories was over Joe Choynski, light heavyweight and one of the smartest boxers in the game. Joe met Choynski in 1900, before winning the welter crown from Rube Ferns. Joe planned his battle with cunning and carried out his line of attack with consummate skill. Realizing that Choynski's height — he was 10 inches taller — would handicap him (Wolcott) in reaching Choynski's head through his guard the negro spent seven rounds punching Choynski in the stomach. The punishment finally caused Choynski to lower his hands to protect his body. Then Wolcott leaped like a spring board diver and caught Choynski flush on the jaw, dropping him for the full count.

Choynski, before the battle, had fought a 20-round draw with Jim Jeffries, a short draw with Bob Fitzsimmons and had licked a dozen heavies of various ability.

Fights a "Kangaroo."

Wolcott, earlier in his career, took on an Australian named Mick Dunn, a middleweight in rating, a foot taller than Wolcott and some 20 pounds heavier. Wolcott took considerable punishment from Dunn for seven rounds. The fans decided that he had taken on too much in meeting the visiting boxer. Then Wolcott let loose. He drove on Dunn's tummy that made him grunt and grab himself. Then came a deadly right flush on Dunn's jaw. Wolcott was inches off the floor when he struck. Dunn stayed down.

George Gardner, later rated as light heavyweight champion and one of the best big men of his day, lost a 20-round decision to Wolcott.

Dan Creedon, another Australian and a middleweight, tried four times to lick Wolcott and failed every time.

There was another negro, George Cole, a welterweight, who took on the Joe Goddard a generation ago when Goddard boasted 220 pounds, and felled the giant.

Lewis Falls Against Carpentier.

Ted Lewis, Britisher and once welterweight champion, is one of the men who stepped out of his class to take on big game. Lewis failed to achieve much, however. Lewis met Georges Carpentier, a normal light heavy in Europe, but was knocked out.

Walker doesn't give away the weight these boys did. He doesn't have to in meeting Greg. The latter must scale 160 for Walker and the welter weighs around 148 in fighting trim.

There is one thing to be said in Walker's behalf, however. He is the first man to go out of his class to meet the windmill. If he licks the weird gentleman from Pittsburgh, Walker can feel right at home any time he visits Holland.

SEEKS THIRD RACING STAKE

NEW YORK, June 15.—James Butler's great handicap horse, Sting, will attempt to add the third of New York's big stakes to his string when he faces the barrier in the Brooklyn handicap at the opening of the Aqueduct meeting this afternoon. The thoroughbred already has won the metropolitan and suburban handicaps and needs only a victory today to come into general recognition as the greatest thoroughbred in training.

He will be asked to carry to weight of 127 pounds but in spite of this heavy impost was a prevailing favorite. A victory for Sting would equal the record of Whisk Broom II, which also won all three races in the same season.

SEMI-FINALISTS BATTLE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 15.—Four survivors in the New York state athletic commission's lightweight elimination tourney will meet tonight at the Queensboro stadium for the right to battle in the final round for Benny Leonard's vacated title. In the first semi-final tonight, Stanislaus Loayza, of Shill, will face Cirilin Olano, of Cuba, and the second will bring together Benny Valgar, of New York, and Jimmy Goodrich, of Buffalo. Valgar is generally favored to win the event.

WOOSTER LOSES ATHLETIC STARS

WOOSTER, Ohio, June 15.—When the class of 1925 is graduated from Wooster college it will take twenty-seven varsity men from the ranks of Wooster's athletic teams. The graduation of these men will leave some large holes in the ranks of Coach Boles' teams which he will have to fill next year.

Perhaps the most outstanding star is Donald Starn. Rosie is the only four letter man in school. He played fullback in football and was captain the past season, he played center in basketball, threw the discus in track and pitched and played first base in baseball.

Lewis Many, Erie lad, is the only three letter man in the class. Many last season played guard in football and was Wooster's outstanding lineman. He played guard in basketball and was captain in his junior year. This past season in track he broke the college record for the shot-put.

Other outstanding athletes who will be missed are Destler in track; Flattery, all Ohio tackle in football; Braden, the varsity pitcher who set down Ohio State; Olin Gabriel center in football and the best college catcher Wooster has ever had; Nate Helm, who now holds Wooster's pole vault record.

Tagging The Bases

Zack Wheat's debut as manager of the Dodgers was a social and economic success amid a shower of base hits and pop bottles. Wheat's men provided the hits, the bleacherites tossed the bottles at a gendarme, the Dodgers won the game and the Reds lost it. Score 12 to 3. It was the Reds' first defeat in nine games.

In an orgy of hitting, the Senators outclassed the Browns and won, 9 to 8, stepping along to within a half game of the leading Athletics.

Our Mr. Ruth smote his second homer of the season and robbed Ty Cobb of another by a leaping gloved-hand catch, the Yankees getting the decision over the Tigers, 8 to 3, behind the laudable pitching of Jones.

A six-run rally in the second eased Graham out of the equation and sent the Cubs on to a 7 to 3 victory over the Braves.

The poor, old Phils finished second once more as Blades and Bell hit successive homers in the sixth and seventh, giving the Cardinals an 11 to 7 verdict.

The Athletics were shut right out for the first time this season when Karr let them down with five hits, the Indians cantering in, 3 to 0.

Beat The Moths To It
A nasty little moth, innocent looking though he may be, can and will destroy hundreds of dollars worth of clothes or fabric household furnishings in a very short time.
You can't arrest or punish this destructive animal, but you can end his career if you catch him. The best way, though, to protect your things against his ravages is to prevent his existence—that is, by having them thoroughly dry cleaned and using proper care before storing them for summer.
Don't think of putting your things away without these precautions—a moth gets fat on the dust and dirt in cloth.

Reappraisement Delayed.

DEFIANCE, June.—Reappraisement of Defiance county real estate in time for use on the new duplicate for the December collections, as required by the recently enacted McDonald act, seems very doubtful, county officials said. Stubborn sore on baby's ear Quickly responds to Resinol

N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10:—"I feel as though I must tell you of the good Resinol Ointment did for my baby. She had a very sore ear for about a year and I tried everything I heard of, but nothing seemed to help it. Then I heard of Resinol and tried it. It surely did the work, for in a couple of days you could scarcely tell that the ear had ever been sore. I'd never be without Resinol Ointment again." (Signed) Mrs. C. Bartosch, 1164 E. Ohio St.
